NOMINATION MEETING!

A Public Meeting of the electors of the Municipal Corporation of the Town of Napanee, in the County of Lennox and Addington, will be held in the Town Hall, Napanee, on at the hour of 7.30 o'clock p.m. for the purpose of nominating candidates for Mayor, Reeve and Councillors to represent the said town for the year 1916, and also for the purpose of nominating members for the Board of Education for the said Town of Napanee for East, Centre and West Wards.

Monday, Dec. 27th, 1915

If more candidates are proposed for any particular office than are required to be elected the Clerk will adjourn

Municipal "Politics"

Kaiser Bill, of Germany, for a good many years dreamed of conquests and the dominating of Europe, but evidently he is not "the only hair in the soup," for the writer of the article in last week's Beaver, on "Municipal Elections,"—judging from the tone of the article—evidently has had dreams concerning the dominating of the municipal affairs of Napanee, by a selection of citizens with a very pronounced leaning towards a certain political party.

A vast majority of the better thinking ratepayers, of Napanee, a good number of years ago arrived at the conclusion that party politics in municipal affairs should be eliminated, and this state of affairs has proven very satisfactory to both parties, except to a few "dyed-in-the-wool" partisans. The attempt of that "inspired" article in the Beaver, to revert back to the old system will meet the fate it so richly deserves, and instead of being a benefit to any of its selection, will prove a detriment.

Paragraph (3) of the "Municipal Election Article" in part says:

"The aspirants for the Mayoralty are probably Reeve S. C. Denison, Councillor R. J. Dickinson and ex-Mayor G. F. Ruttan. Mr. Ruttan being interviewed as to his intentions, said, "that he had been requested by many citizens during the past few weeks to come out and run for Mayor, they seeming, rightly or wrongly, to think that his experience of many years in the Council as Councillor, Reeve and Mayor, was an asset that the town requires for the coming year, 1916, when great financial difficulties and the adjustment of the railway question has to be disposed of."

The first couple of lines state the facts correctly. Coun. R. J. Dickinson and Reeve Denison have, for the past several years been faithful servants of the town, giving of their time and ability at the council board, and no doubt have arrived at the conclusion that as a reward for faithful services they are entitled to a term in the Mayor's chair. The entrance of Mr. Ruttan into the contest, will no doubt upset this friendly contest, but we do not hesitate to say that no matter whether Coun. Dickinson or Reeve Denison contests for the Mayoralty, the ratepayers of Napanee, who have always rewarded honest service, will see that they make no mistake in this case.

The above paragraph also says: "That his (meaning Mr. Ruttan) experience of many years in the Council as Councillor, Reeve and Mayor, was an asset that the town said five months. Now, let payer add on to the 18 mills, rate, and he will see how s trying to blind him by ne stating the facts." Then a the writer says:

"The tax rate of Napanee and must be reduced."

It seems to us as though talking for effect.

If he was conversant wit of the case, and fair to t council, he would tell the that this year's council estimates down to almost an able basis, and we do not person, or any body of n possibly do any better und sent circumstances, or ca town's business more eec than the 1915 council has do Paragraph (4) of the "Elections Article," says:

"The candidates for Reeve believe, Councillor Waller Denison, (if not for May Councillor Graham. All known public men and, M son having had the honors or three years, we think h retire and let the other t test the seat. Mr. Grah made many friends while Board, and we believe make as satisfactory a Reeve has a Councillor, and th should be glad to retain vices of Mr. Graham in th cil of the town and county his keen business a bili assure his success."

We have no particular fa with this paragraph, beyond that it is decidedly partisan.

The writer evidently was say a good word for Reeve and Coun. Waller for fear have some influence against dature of Coun. Graham.

Reeve Denison has been and painstaking servant of at the council board, and his at the County Council have b appreciated, and among the of the County Council he has decidedly favorable impressi

Anyone who has attended the liberation of the town cou past year, would be in a p know, and would be compell that Coun. Waller, with his perience in municipal affairs, ness ability, has been the bac the 1915 Council.

In all fairness to Coun. (and we believe in giving pra praise is due) we must sa shown remarkable ability at cil board this year, and has ad ed his department with rare good judgment.

We do not wish to criti the other members of the favor of their good points, bad ones. Neither do we wis any remarks concerning th men, whose names appear tile as possible candidates for our, but we do wish to state said article would have be palatable to a majority of payers if it had not been so partisan.

see that they make no mistake in this case.

The above paragraph also says: "That his (meaning Mr. Ruttan) experience of many years in the Council as Councillor, Reeve and Mayor, was an asset that the town requires for the coming year, 1916, when great financial difficulties and the adjustment of the railway question has to be disposed of."

Does the writer of that article infer that the gentlemen who compose the 1915 council are not capable, and have not the ability, to deal with any financial question which may arise? Does he mean to infer that Mr. Ruttan could influence the Board of Railway Commissioners in the matter of the location of the C.N.R. station?

We think the writer of that article owe to the gentlemen, who compose the 1915 Council an apology. All necessary steps to safeguard the town's interests in the question of the C.N.R. station have been taken by the present Council, and whatever action has been taken has been along those lines as suggested by the public meeting of the ratepayers held recently.

Continuing paragraph (3) says:

"Mr. Ruttan stated that he has definitely decided to contest the election for the Mayor's chair, and while, if elected, he did not expect to reach the record of the year when he, as Chairman of Finance, succeeded in running the town, including the building of the Napanee iron drive bridge, on an 18 mill rate, he thought the tax rate of Napanee should and must be reduced."

Will some kind gentleman (of the present generation) please tell the people of Napanee when the town was run on an 18 mill rate? Does the writer of the above think for a minute that he can throw dust in the eyes of the ratepayer and so blind him that he will swallow that rot? If it had been the intention of the writer to place honestly before the ratepayers the facts, he would have told them that the year of the 18 mill rate the previous council had, when striking the estimates for the last five months, of 1908, raised the school taxes for an entire year.

The facts are as follows:

Prior to 1909, the town's fiscal year, was from August to August. In 1908 it was decided to change this and make the fiscal year from January to January. In August, 1908 the Chairman of Finance prepared estimates for running the town for the balance of the year, but, by an oversight, instead of raising the school rate for the five months, his estimates provided for the school rate to August, 1909.

Thus, when Mr. Ruttan became Finance Minister in 1909, he did not have to raise any school rate, except for the last five months of 1909, and even this he failed to do, and the School Board were compelled to expend a surplus of funds which they had on hand to run the schools for the men, whose names appear in the article as possible candidates for, but we do wish to state that article would have been palatable to a majority of payers if it had not been so partisan.

The last paragraph of that article, which is a "able" article, which is a lead one to believe that the poor business methods of the council, the town was badly managed:

"The people of Napanee are alarmed when they are asked to pay 3 and 1-10 p on the assessed value of $1 (more than bank interest) assessed value is higher ever has been. WAK ELECTORS! and do after the January election we ought to have done so! DO IT, AND DO IT NOW

Sounds very pretty and right in print but how do out when confronted with facts. The only possible means down the rate of taxation through the controllable expenditure. Let us have a look at these and see what the controllable expenditures are:

Streets Committee.....
Fire, Water and Light.....
Town Property.....
Printing and By-Laws.....
Market and Police.....
Poor and Sanitary.....
Contingent.....
Patriotic Fund.....

The above are practically controllable expenditures of the balance being fixed expenditure. Who is there that will say Street appropriation of $82,000 is not controllable?

Of the amount of $5625.000 for Fire, Water and Light $375.00 is controllable, and amount fire hose and fire have to be bought.

Nothing doing here.

Town Property Committee probably this amount will used.

Printing and By-Laws, $44,000 amount is generally all used tising and printing and can well be reduced.

Market and Police, $100.00 marks needed.

Poor and Sanitary, $50.00 amount will not begin to expenditure this year.

Contingent, $405.06; about what is needed.

Now, if that "bright an star," who wrote "Municipalities," in last week's Be show us where the tax rates reduced, without an increase assessment, we will be under obligation to him.

KING RESUMES WORK.

Physicians Now Admit That His Condition Has Been "Grave."

LONDON, Dec. 14.—King George, who suffered severe injuries by being thrown from his horse at the British front in France October 28, has recovered sufficiently to take up affairs of State under certain restrictions. Sir Frederick Treves, assistant surgeon to the King, and Sir Bertrand Dawson, physician-extraordinary to his Majesty, have made the following statement:

"We are happy to report that the King has so far recovered from the grave accident of October 28 as to be able to resume work with certain limitations.

"The King has lost seriously in weight, and, until a normal state of health is attained, it is essential that his Majesty should avoid any cause of fatigue. It has been necessary on medical grounds that the King should take a little stimulant daily during convalescence. As soon as the King's health is quite restored he will resume total abstinence, which he imposed upon himself for public reasons."

BRITISH SAVED THE DAY.

Irish Corps Especially Praised for Work in Battle With Bulgars.

LONDON, Dec. 14.—Casualties aggregating 1,500 and the loss of eight field guns, which they were unable to remove from emplacements, are told of in an official communication issued Sunday, dealing with the retreat of the British 10th Division from Lake Doiran, Serbia, in conjunction with the French.

"The special correspondent of Reuter's, with the British headquarters staff in the Balkans, thus describes the retreat of the Allies:

"Last week General Sarrail had already prepared to evacuate advanced positions along the Cerna front. On Saturday Krivolak was abandoned, and after establishing a first bridgehead at Demir-Kapu the French made a second bridgehead at Grabcet, after withdrawing all stores and destroying tunnels and bridges on the railway. Meanwhile the Bulgarians and Germans in constantly increasing strength began to bear heavily on the point of junction of the Franco-British lines, especially threatening the Strumitsa road, which forms the main artery of our position.

"The Germans soon began to make things hot for our first line. They had weather conditions in their favor, and under cover of mist which prevented our longer ranged field guns from registering with accuracy they brought numerous mountain guns to positions impracticable for our less mobile pieces and opened a murderous fire at close range.

"Exposed to this hot grilling and threatened partly on our flank owing to the French retirement, our positions soon became untenable, and the men of the Irish division were withdrawn to a second line prepared a long time in advance. During these engagements the fighting was often at very close quarters owing to the mist, but the gallant Connaught Rangers, the Dublin Fusiliers, and the Munster Fusiliers repeatedly drove the enemy off with the bayonet with heavy losses.

Allies Are in Full Control of Salonica Area.

Greece Has Withdrawn Her Men
From the Line of Retreat of the Franco-British Forces Which Have Been Compelled to Evacuate Serbia—Salonica Will Be Made Into a Huge Base.

LONDON, Dec. 14.—The Anglo-French troops, forced to completely evacuate Serbia by overwhelming numbers of Bulgarians, are preparing to resist a Bulgar-German drive on Salonica. Greece has made satisfactory guarantees to the Entente Ministers at Athens, it is stated in a news agency despatch, and Salonica is being converted into a base.

The despatch announcing the success of the Entente representations at Athens states that King Constantine personally received the Ministers of the Quadruple powers and conveyed to them assurances which are viewed as satisfactory. Quickly following the conference Greek troops began to withdraw from the territory along the Salonica railway, along which the Allies are falling back. It is further reported that the majority of the Greek troops at Salonica also will be removed.

The battle between the Franco-British expeditionary army and the Bulgarians is rapidly approaching its end. Fighting of the utmost violence, which began six days ago when the beginning of the allied retreat was announced, is still going on, the Bulgars attacking and pursuing with undiminished force, and the Allies rendering stubborn rearguard resistance, but retreating steadily, and are now approaching, if they have not crossed, the Greek frontier.

So well was the work of destroying the railways north of the Greek frontier effected by the French engineers that the Bulgarians were greatly delayed, having to use roads covered with snow, with the result that the French escaped almost unscathed. In their retirement from the right bank of the Cerna the French burned the bridge spanning the river at Vozartsi, the ferry at Ribartsi, and the railway bridge at Gradsko. On abandoning Krivolak the French destroyed parts of the railroad. At Demirkapou they blew up a long tunnel and an important bridge.

During all these operations the French were facing four Bulgarian infantry divisions and one division of cavalry, but they succeeded in retiring with slight loss and took along all their supplies.

The British, who had advanced further from the railway to the north-east of Lake Doiran, had a much more difficultfeat to accomplish when retirement was decided on, and suffered more heavily. They were faced by greatly superior forces, and according to an official report issued last night, their successful withdrawal to a position extending from Lake Doiran to the Vardar valley was largely due to the gallantry of the Connaught Rangers, the Munster Fusiliers and the Dublin Fusiliers.

The British casualties are estimated at 1,500, while they were forced to leave behind eight field guns, which have been placed in position to

PERFUME OF MUSK.

The Odor Is Penetrating Because the Substance Is Radio-active.

The extraordinarily penetrating power of musk perfume is accounted for by the fact that it is radio-active. The United States consul at Chunking, China, writes that this property causes the odor to be carried through the air in a way that would otherwise be impossible. And he adds that this radioactive property "affects most peculiarly the natives who carry it. If it is held close to the body for any length of time it produces sores that are probably similar in character to those caused by pure radium."

Musk is a secretion of certain glands or pouches of the male musk deer and is secreted only during certain seasons of the year. It is difficult to obtain pure, and one of the largest French manufacturers of perfume keeps a representative at Tachienlu, near the Tibetan border, for the sole purpose of buying it.

Three thousand pounds of musk on an average are shipped every year from Chunking, and fully half of this has passed through Tachienlu, which is one of the principal musk markets of the world, though eighteen days' journey from Chunking, the nearest port.

The deer, which are seldom more than three feet long and twenty to twenty-two inches tall, are being slaughtered in such numbers that they are becoming more and more scarce and will eventually be extinct.

HE ASKED FOR DONALD.

And Much to His Surprise He Got the Answer He Sought.

Dr. Norman Macleod, the famous Scottish divine, before visiting India, called on an old highland woman in Glasgow, says a writer in the Scottish American. "When ye gang tae India," he said, "ye'll be seein' ma Donald" that went awa tae India ten years ago an' never sent the scrape of a pen tae his mither since."

"But, Katie," said the doctor, "India is a very big place, and how can I expect to find him?"

"Oh, but ye'll just be askin' for Donald. What for no?"

So, to please the old woman, he promised to ask for Donald, and he conscientiously kept his word. At various ports he made inquiry among British ships, although it seemed very much like looking for a needle in a bale of hay. But it is the unexpected that happens. As Dr. Macleod's steamer went up the Hugli river an' outward bound vessel passed close by. A sailor was leaning over her bulwark, and, moved by a sudden impulse, the doctor shouted out:

"Are you Donald Mactavish?"

To his intense surprise the man answered, "Yes."

Dr. Macleod had only time to shout, "You're to write to your mother!" as the vessels drew apart. The result of his amazing meeting was that the old lady received a penitent letter from her long neglectful son.

"The superiority of numbers of the enemy and his mountain guns, however, in the long run prevailed, and we retired to our second line, the French having in the meanwhile abandoned the bridgehead at Grabec and Hill No. 516. The importance of our stand in these positions is difficult to exaggerate, because, had the Bulgarians succeeded in pushing through, they would have cut off the retreat of the main body of the French forces as well as the British and would probably have inflicted grave reverses.

"Since Tuesday the pressure of the Bulgarians' offensive has relaxed and our new positions are very strong."

GERMANS WITHDRAW.

Forces in Russia Move to a Better Strategic Position.

LONDON, Dec. 14.—Despatches from Petrograd indicate that the Germans are withdrawing their centre to what is known as the Bug River line, which, however, at many places is considerably north-east of that river. This withdrawal is due to their inability to secure complete control of the Lida-Baronovitchi-Rovno Railway, which was necessary for the successful holding of the advanced position which they reached after their great drive of last summer. They have evacuated Slonim, lying to the west, and Baronovitchi and Kobrin, just to the east of Brest-Litovsk, which they are making the centre of their new lines. These are being very strongly fortified.

This suggests that the Germans plan to continue the creation of a stalemate in the east, as they did in the west, and that if they cannot break through they will make it just as difficult for the Russians to do so.

The Bug River line runs from the south to Brest-Litovsk, then curves northwestward to the Vistula at Novo-Georgievsk. It represents a withdrawal of 100 to 150 miles from Russian territory and makes the net gain of ground for the season about 50 to 60 miles on a front of 200 miles.

This withdrawal apparently indicates that the Germans have given up their project of proceeding with the invasion of Russia.

Russians Beat Turks.

PETROGRAD, Dec. 14.—Defeating a Turkish force on the roads to Hamadan in the Caucasus, the Russians pushed on and captured the fortified positions of the Turks on the Sultan-Bula ridge and Turk attempts to advance were checked southwest of Khopan on the coastal region of the Black Sea. The Russians are now advancing along the Hamadan roads and are within striking distance of the Sultan Bula Pass.

of the Connaught Rangers, the Munster Fusiliers and the Dublin Fusiliers.

The British casualties are estimated at 1,500, while they were forced to leave behind eight field guns, which have been placed in position to cover the retirement, and could not be removed.

What the next move will be is known only to the Allied staffs, but it is generally believed that the Anglo-French forces will fall right back to Salonica where reinforcements are arriving, and which will be fortified. There are also reports that the Allies have landed a division at Kavala, 90 miles along the coast from Salonica and near the Bulgarian frontier, but there is no confirmation of this. If it is true, the object doubtless is to secure the railway and prevent the Bulgarians from sending troops westward into Greece.

A despatch to the Havas Agency from Salonica dated Sunday, says:

"An intense action continues along the Entente allied fronts, the Bulgarians attacking in dense mass formations. The Allies' retreat continues methodically."

"The situation of the British north of Doiran has noticeably improved, thanks to the arrival of reinforcements from Salonica. Fresh British troops are landing daily."

WILL STOP WASTE.

Sir Sam Hughes Takes Steps to Inspect Depots Regularly.

OTTAWA, Dec. 14.—With a view to keeping a more effective check on the food and other supplies issued to the troops, and to prevent waste and grafting, either through short-weight or the reselling of any unused food, Major-General Sir Sam Hughes has arranged for a staff of special inspectors. They will visit the various camps and training depots, and see that all due economy is being observed. It is stated that in some places through laxity or dishonesty on the part of some of the local officials thousands of dollars' worth of supplies has been wasted, and petty graft has cost the Government large sums in the aggregate.

Lieut.-Col. Mullins of Winnipeg, a well-known cattleman of western Canada, will have charge of the inspection work for western Canada. Lieut.-Col. Joseph G. Langton of Toronto has been appointed for eastern Canada, with Lieut.-Col. Stewart of Orono, Ont., as a sub-inspector. Other sub-inspectors are to be appointed.

Maple Sugar Adulteration.

OTTAWA, Dec. 14.—Inspections made of maple sugar offered for sale since the new law came into effect prohibiting the use of the word "maple" unless it was the pure article, show that in 204 out of 234 cases the maple sugar was genuine. In five cases it met legal requirements, while in 25 cases it was found adulterated.

The Colossus of Rhodes.

The remains of the Colossus of Rhodes have been dispersed beyond possibility of recovery or even of tracing. It stood for little more than half a century and then, in 224 B. C. was overthrown by an earthquake. The Rhodians raised from benevolent outsiders large sums of money for its restoration, but divided the fund among themselves, asserting that the oracle of Delphi had forbidden them to set it up again. So there the ruin lay until 672 A. D., when the Saracens sold it to a Jewish merchant, who loaded 900 camels and went away—literally—with the brass.—London Spectator.

That Genius Whistler.

Of Whistler Lady St. Heller in "Memories of Fifty Years" writes thus: "He was a genius and had all the defects and qualities of one. To him everything was a joke, the subject of a bonmot. The lightest and daintiest of persiflage was what he excelled in, and one never had a dull moment in his company. He was always late for dinner, arranging the immortal lock of gray hair in its proper place as he came into the room, with apologies and excuses, none of them true, or which he was perfectly conscious and also that they were not believed. Wherever he was there would be a circle listening to him, and his ringing laugh would be heard all over the room as he sent his shafts right and left into the joints of the armor of those who were attacking him. It was a great surprise and almost a shock when he appeared as a Benedict."

A Garrick Incident.

David Garrick, where speaking was concerned, was the pride of London. Members of parliament envied him his powers. Burke envied him. There is that instance in parliament when, during a heated debate, a member moved that the gallery be cleared. This was ordered to be done, and the strangers withdrew, all save Garrick. Still the member objected. Then up spake Burke. Would it be fair to exclude from their debate the master of eloquence, the genius who taught them the art of speaking? he demanded. For himself he was proud to acknowledge his indebtedness to Garrick. Fox followed in the same strain, and Townshend. The house then voted that the "stranger should remain." And Garrick did not budge.—St. James' Gazette.

Soho Square, London.

Soho is perhaps the most curiously derived place name in London. According to Samuel Pegge, the antiquary, Soho square, which has given a name to the district, was first called Monmouth square when the ill-fated Duke of Monmouth had a house there. Upon the duke's defeat and execution in 1685 the square was ordered to be called King's square, and a statue of King Charles II. was set up in the middle of it. But the partisans of the Duke of Monmouth, wishing to preserve a distant remembrance of their leader, called it Soho square, from "Soho," a hunting cry adopted by the duke as his watchword at the battle where he was taken prisoner.—London Saturday Review.

Not Quite.

"Young man," inquired her father sternly, "will you give her a home like the one she has been used to?"

"No," replied the truthful suitor, "for there will be no grumpy father to come home and make every one miserable by his kicking over trifles and swearing at matters in general. There will be no mother to scold her from morning to night for wasting time merely because she wants to be neat. There will be no big brother to abuse her for not doing half of his work and no little brother to make enough noise to drive her crazy when her head aches. There won't be any younger sister to insist on reading some trashy novel while she does all the work. She will not have with me a home like she has been used to, not if I can help it."—Boston Journal.

DOMINION RESOURCES COMMISSION

The opinion is freely expressed here that the Dominion Resources Commission, if it is to keep abreast of its responsibilities, should get busy at once. At present it looks as if the Commission thinks that being appointed is as much hard work as it ought to do for a while and that examining the resources of Canada can be left over until there is a slack spell.

This tendency to hang fire in the matter of good works which has already led to a lot of bungling at Quebec and a lot of complaining from improperly discharged soldiers who were thus shortchanged of their back pay, should not be allowed to spread to the Dominion Resources Commission whose task of enlightenment and regeneration is, like the statesman's frock coat, not for an age but for all time. The object of the Dominion Resources Commission is presumably to find and suggest resources which will keep the wolf from the door and the way to keep the wolf from the door is to head him off before he gets there, not to wait until he is eating the victrola in the front parlor.

For this and many other reasons good hopes are strongly hoping that the Dominion Resources Commission will proceed to concentrate immediately on its important labors and that it will not follow the example of so many other Government commissions, composed of prominent but tired business men, who consider that their duty is done when they give the public welfare the dregs of their activity, hold a few meetings at conveniently long intervals and draw up a report in which a few conclusions of a general and obvious nature are suitably embodied.

Much criticism has been passed on the habit of Government commissions have of bringing in a report after the public has lost interest in the subject and letting it go at that. But judging from such reports as have been seen print in the past oblivion was the best that could happen to them. The poor things should never have been dragged into the light. The wisdom they displayed, the boiled owl kind of wisdom that says nothing that everybody doesn't know already, is entitled to a decent burial. Simply that and nothing more.

The other kind of wisdom, the wisdom that reveals truth, that exposes injustice points out faults and indicates remedies—the wisdom in short that gets down to cases, names names, and call spades spades, that kind of wisdom may get as far as a report but it seldom gets as far as a blue book, the Government treasures the information so much that it won't let anybody else have a look in. So it puts it in a vault and hoards it there.

For example, the Government has in hand right now, has in fact had it in hand for a year back, a most valuable and interesting report on the High Cost of Living, drawn up by a bold and fearless investigator, Mr. R. W. Coates, of the Department of Labor. Mr. Coates is probably the best informed statistician and economic investigator in Canada to-day, and any Government is privileged which enjoys his services. Investigating the High Cost of Living is just the hard kind of a job that Mr. Coates likes to tackle and when, to satisfy a general clamor, the Government put him to work about a year and a half ago he good votes. If the principle of the Bill is modified so that the good roads can be used to carry food products as well as votes, it will pass the House flying.

It's a safe bet that the Commission will call attention in stately language to the fact that what this country needs to pay interest charges and build up traffic for three transcontinental railways—one and a half of which will probably be on the Government's hands—is immigration, hand-picked, personally-conducted immigrants, who will be escorted to their land allotment, say of forty acres each, —forty acres is as much as one man can cultivate—settled there, helped if necessary with money, seed and machinery, in a word anchored instead of drifting off into the cities as they do at present. The Commission, we repeat, will point out the advisability of giving free land to the settler if the Government has any land left to give, or selling it to him at a reasonable price if the railways have any of that kind of land to sell. It may possibly argue that it is more profitable to have millions of small holders paying all the taxes the land can bear than two or three railways who won't pay land taxes at all but it won't be the first time attention has been called to that fact.

The Dominion Resources Commission may strive to make the farmer happier and more prosperous by suggesting cheap loans, co-operative marketing, better roads, improved farming methods and other devices known to habitual investigators but one hardly sees how a Commission with a boss middleman in the middle of it can logically hand out tips to the farmer on how to sell for more money what the consumer is going to buy for less. Middlemen are what you might call the crux of the situation and as they have not hitherto been regarded as resources the Dominion Resources Commission will probably find it convenient to overlook them.

PEEL'S MEMBER.

Will there be a bye-election for the Local House for the Constituency of Peel, in the most interesting individual question in Ontario Politics at the present time.

James R. Fallis, M.P.P. for Peel, appears to be thoroughly discredited as a result of the revelations made public at the Davidson inquiry on the purchase of horses for the Dominion Government, at Brampton.

The verdict of public opinion seems to be strongly against Fallis, although a member of the Local House and not of the Federal, should, as Foster of Nova Scotia, and Garland of Carleton, were both forced to do in similar circumstances, resign his seat.

The incident undoubtedly is an embarrassing one to the Ontario Government, and wonder is expressed as to what Premier Hearst will do.

Mr. Fallis, by his own testimony, shows that he purchased horses from farmers after the animals had already passed the Government Inspector, and resold them to the Government, making a private profit.

MR. ROWELL'S SPEECHES.

Two timely and vigorous speeches were given by Mr. Rowell at Woodstock at the last week-end; one of the increasing important problem of "Recruiting", and the other on the not less important subject of "Munitions of war."

Mr. Rowell, of course, has been urging the stimulation of recruiting from the very beginning of the war and now, when the demands are being increased, Mr. Rowell is continuing his

Warship Sunk

By British Sub.

LONDON, Dec. 6.—The Turkish torpedo boat destroyer Yar Hisar has been sunk in the Sea of Marmora by a British submarine, it was announced in British official statement this evening. A supply steamer and four sailing vessels also were destroyed by the submarines on Dec. 3 and 4.

The official report follows:

"A report has been received from one of the British submarines operating in the Sea of Marmora describing her recent activities.

"On Dec. 2 she fired into and damaged a train on the Ismid Railway.

"On Dec. 3 she torpedoed and sank the Turkish destroyer Yar Hisar, outside the Gulf of Ismid. She picked up two officers and 40 men of the des-

On with this old man was also woman, who was as old a also unmarried, who had bee devoted and hardworking of en servants of the king's un the king heard these praises he ordered them to be brou him and said to the woman kind of a job that Mr. Coates likes to tackle and when, to satisfy a general clamor, the Government put him to work about a year and a half ago he went to it like a terrier to a root.

That report was finished perhaps eight months ago and has been in the manuscript stage ever since. When Mr. Crothers was asked about it in the House of Commons last April words could hardly express his admiration for Mr. Coates' great work. It was, he said, one of the most thorough and satisfactory reports he had ever read, a masterpiece of illumination and the only thing that kept it out of print at that time was a trifling indisposition of Mr. Coates who would soon, however, be well enough to read the proofs. After that the report would go forward rapidly, and would soon be in the hands of all those who were anxious to learn the cause of the high cost of living and how to get around it. That was seven months ago. Mr. Coates is now completely restored to health but his world-shaking report on the high cost of living remains just where it was when Mr. Crothers praised it so highly last April—in cold storage. Apparently Mr. Coates did his work well.

The report not only showed up causes but looked straight at, if it did not name, offenders who were tariff-friends of the Government. On second thoughts Mr. Crothers probably decided that the naked facts ought not to go out to the public just now. One war at a time is enough.

The Dominion Resources Commission may bring in a report too good to be true, or one too true to be printed but in either case it starts out under serious handicaps. One observes in the very middle of it a couple of gentlemen not unconnected with the high cost of living, and it may not be their policy to give trade secrets away. If they have their will of the Commission it will probably not tell enough truth to shame the devil. It takes a lot of truth to shame his Satanic majesty and the chances are that he is in no danger from the Dominion Resources Commission which will naturally tell just as much truth as the public mind can absorb without straining, which is as much truth as the ordinary blue book usually contains. The Dominion Resources Commission will tell the truth but it won't rub it in. That could hardly be expected of a number of gentlemen whose main duty is to find something reassuring.

Along that line we may expect the Commission to develop many constructive ideas, not original ideas, nor yet very new, but constructive and therefore comforting. For instance it will point out the necessity of increased production, which everybody admits, but it will not press it to the extent of demanding easier tariffs with the United States in order to create easier markets for the increased products the farmers are cajoled into producing. For illustration take the increased wheat production in the Northwest which is denied the United States market for party purposes.

No doubt the commission will also draw attention to the necessity of making country life more attractive and more profitable if the increased production is to take care of war debts, newly acquired Government railways and such. One thing they are almost sure to ask for is good roads so that transportation will be easier and cheaper and the cost of food correspondingly diminished to the city consumer who dwells in a ring fence of protected interests and pays high taxes for the privilege of being robbed by the tradesmen. The Commission, we repeat will be strong for good roads and the Government will receive encouragement to bring in again its Good Roads Bill, the object of which was to put the good roads wherever they would do good work in half a century.

Mr. Rowell, in course, has been getting the stimulation of recruiting from the very beginning of the war and now, when the demands are being increased, Mr. Rowell is continuing his campaign.

Mr. Rowell in his Woodstock speech, placed the responsibility for recruiting where he said it was obvious that it had belonged, on the Federal Government. He felt that there had not been sufficient leadership from them up to the present, and urged that they take a more direct part in appealing to the manhood of the country to enlist.

In the question of munitions and war supplies, Mr. Rowell regretted that the Canadian Government had not, a year ago, on its own initiative, taken the step which the British Government has recently taken, that is, the appointment of a strong Commission headed by Mr. J. W. Flavelle, to take charge of the munitions problem. Much valuable time had been lost.

Mr. Rowell was unmistakably emphatic in his condemnation of all those who had grafted in war supplies. He also declared that all profits on war contracts should be subject to heavy taxation.

BEEF RAISING IN CANADA.

There has been issued in Ottawa a new edition of Bulletin No. 13 of the Live Stock Branch, "Beef Raising in Canada." It is available on application to the Publications Branch of the Department of Agriculture. Upwards of one hundred pages, and nearly as many half-tone illustrations, conveying valuable information are given. Among the contributors are many of the best informed and most experienced beef raisers and experimenters in Canada.

A section is devoted to descriptive accounts of the various breeds of beef cattle raised in this country, while practical information on breeding, rearing, housing, and marketing is also contained.

In dealing with the finished steer it is rightly remarked that to succeed the requirements of the purchaser must be complied with. The standard of the beef market has changed greatly in recent years. The bullock that commands the highest price is a compact, well finished animal weighing not more than 1,500 lbs. on foot and if he weighs only 1,200 lbs. he will fetch the top figure, provided he has the form, quality and finish. Even the thousand pound "baby beef" is looked for by the best buyers on this side of the Atlantic, but such cattle are not shipped abroad. The change is greatly to the advantage of the producer, as other things being equal, the younger the animal goes to market, the less is the cost of food and the greater the profit to the producer. To secure delicate flavor and tenderness a certain proportion of fat is necessary and this should be incorporated with the flesh or lean meat rather than appear only as a covering to the muscles. The great secret in producing a carcass of beef is to treat an animal in such a way that the fat grows with it during the entire period of its life time. It is unfortunately the two common practice of Canadian beef raisers to produce all the fat that an animal carries in the course of a few months. Much of the fat put on in this way is deposited on the outside of the carcass; it is largely wasted, as it is useful for little else than tallow. The carcass that dresses out showing specks and streaks of fat throughout the lean tissue commands the highest price. The only way to be sure of prime quality is to maintain the animal in good condition by a system of liberal feeding from birth to maturity. Then the finishing period is comparatively short, and the carcass produces the highly desirable marbled beef.

Escaped German Sub, After a Stern Chase.

LONDON, Dec. 6.—"The steamer Japanese Prince, of the Prince Line, Newcastle-on-Tyne, with a large crew and a considerable number of passengers, recently encountered a German submarine. For five and one-half hours she struggled to get clear, being heavily shelled during the greater portion of that time.

"The captain stood pluckily at his post and handled the vessel with conspicuous ability and judgment. As a result of his efforts, the Japanese Prince was ultimately able to elude the submarine, and was brought into port with all on board safe and sound.

"As an evidence of their appreciation of his gallantry and ability, the directors of the Prince Line awarded Captain Jenkins the sum of £500 ($2500), and have directed that a similar sum be divided among that vessel's crew."

German Troops Rushed To Western Theatre

LONDON, Dec. 7.—A despatch to The Daily Mail from Rotterdam says:

"Newspapers from south and west Germany, which had been stopped for a fortnight, came to hand to-day, which may mean that a concentration of German troops on the western front for the expected big battle has been completed.

"Undoubtedly troops have been pouring into France and Belgium for a week, but it cannot be learned precisely whether as a precaution against an entente allied offensive or whether Germany will take the initiative."

CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS AND DISPLAYS.

Following our usual custom at this season of the year I beg to call your attention to the dangers to life and property from Christmas decorations, displays, etc., which are frequently made at this time of the year. The use of Christmas greens, harvest specimens and other inflammable materials such as draperies, sceneries, cotton to represent snow, and the like, (ESPECIALLY IN CONNECTION WITH ELECTRIC AND OTHER LIGHTING SYSTEMS), is decidedly an increase of hazard, it being impossible to make displays of that nature perfectly safe.

The statutory conditions of your Insurance Policy read in part as follows:

"Any change material to the risk, but within the control or knowledge of the assured, shall avoid the policy, as to the part affected thereby, unless the change is promptly notified in writing to the company or its local agent."

HIGH LIFE IN PERU.

The Pace Has to Be Slow on the "Roof of the Continent."

Professor Alsworth Ross of the University of Wisconsin, in an article in the Century Magazine entitled "Peru, the Roof of the Continent," tells of the difficulty of merely sustaining life in the higher altitudes among the Andes. He says:

Life at Cerro de Pasco, nearly a league up, is as trying as life under a diving bell at the bottom of the ocean. The newcomer gasps for air like a stranded fish and wakes up at night gulping mouthfuls out of the thin atmosphere. Three quick steps put you out of breath, and after climbing a flight of stairs you must sit down for a rest. "I know," panted a "tenderfoot," "how I'll feel when I'm eighty."

No employee is sent up by the company unless he has passed a physician's examination, but occasionally one gets blue in the face and has to be sent down forthwith. Thus the Inca Chronicle often has such items as, "Jake L., who returned here last April, has been sent home with his heart machinery in bad shape."

The young fellows play tennis and ball, and even indulge in track athletics, but the pace must be very slow. Singing is not popular, for you cannot get the breath to hold a note. Pneumonia is sure death here within forty-eight hours, so that the sufferer must be rushed down to the sea level in a special train that costs the company $500. The typhoid patient, too, must flee, and the northern women must descend to Lima to bear their babies.

The mining company's Americans are usually big, athletic, deep chested men, strong of jaw, sinewy of grip and masterful of manner. They are well paid and looked after, but too many of them squander money and vitality in fighting off the demon of loneliness.

SLEEP AND SLEEPLESSNESS

What Slumber Does and How Insomnia Should Be Treated.

In his book on "Sleep and Sleeplessness" H. Addington Bruce gives the new theory of sleep as follows: "It is now known that sleep, contrary to the belief formerly so widely entertained, is no mere passive, negative state, the product of toxic or other harmful elements, but is an active, positive, function, a protective instinct of gradual evolution and dependent for its operation partly on the will and partly on the environment.

"It is the result of a certain reaction between the central nervous system and the stimuli impinging on it, its object being not so much the recuperation of the organism from the effects of the activities of the intervening period of waking life as to save the organism from the destructive consequences of uninterrupted activity."

He thinks that most people sleep longer than is really necessary. Men of intense mental or physical activity—for instance, Napoleon, Frederick the Great, Schiller, Humboldt, Mirabeau, the English surgeon John Hunter and Thomas A. Edison—get along very well with four or five hours of sleep. Yet he does not advise people to reduce their accustomed hours of sleep suddenly as that might have disastrous

NEY AS A FIGHTER

Napoleon Called His Marshal the "Bravest Man I Ever Saw."

THE RETREAT FROM MOSCOW.

Where the Heroic Commander With a Mere Handful of Men as a Rear Guard Fell Back, Facing the Foe. Minor Heroes of the Great Conflict.

Three towering personalities came to the clinch on the field of Waterloo. There are perhaps a half dozen names remembered in connection with that epoch making battle, but they are little more than names; only Blucher, Napoleon and Wellington have contrived to outlive the memory of their contemporaries.

Yet there were some at Waterloo who were not only brave fighters, but vastly interesting individuals, and it is more than unfortunate that they should have suffered eclipse. There is perhaps one exception. One cannot scratch the history surrounding any of the three great commanders who met at Waterloo without encountering Michael Ney, Napoleon's "bravest of the brave."

It is impossible to think of Ney except in superlatives. It is impossible to collect dry facts about him; the temper that matched his hair smolders through and sets them ablaze. Even Napoleon, always so unpleasantly eager to shift the blame for failure to other shoulders, wrote from the solitude of St. Helena, "Ney was the bravest man I ever saw."

One of his officers once asked him if he ever felt fear. "Never had time," was the curt reply.

The tales of his daring, his hairbreadth escapes, his unbelievable indifference to shot and shell, are legion.

He was always calmest in time of the greatest peril, and it was this quality that Napoleon appreciated. Again and again France and the crown were in Michael Ney's hands. Whenever Napoleon saw that the issue of a battle turned on a single point he sent Ney to that point. At the battle of Bautzen the emperor lay on the ground which is sheltered by a height from the town. He heard Ney's guns on the left. A bomb burst over his head. He sat down and wrote Marie Louise that the victory was gained. He waited only to learn that Ney was where the crisis turned to be sure of victory.

But the most dramatic chapter of this gallant fighter's life is that headed "The Retreat from Moscow." Melsonier might better have painted the rear of the Corsican's army than the van. He would have had a more appealing, a more gallant subject in Michael Ney, retreating with his face to the enemy. With a mere handful of men he flung himself between the fleeing French and the Russian army and backed slowly, stubbornly from Moscow.

This is the man who a little later was publicly shot as a traitor to France.

Ney's fellow marshal, Grouchy, does not fare so well. Grouchy was a

HIS FRIEND THE RAT.

The Mine Disaster Story That Went With a Stuffed Rodent.

Any man who will keep a stuffed rat in his room wherever he goes must have a story to tell about the rat. This man has.

"This story," he said, "concerns an experience that made my hair curl. I am an engineer. I was once retained to report upon the working of a mine in southern Arizona. The mine was called the Barbara. On an adjoining claim was another mine called the Hyperion. A dispute arose. The Hyperion people claimed that the lower levels of the Barbara had been bored into their ground and half a dozen fortunes in ore taken out of their mine."

"The first thing to do was to make a survey of the Barbara. The Barbara people, of course, objected. Finally, an order for the survey was secured from the court, and I was sent, with a man named Jim Banks, to make the survey.

"There are tricks in all trades, and the Barbara representative knew a few in his. When we reached the mine he said that the tunnel we wished to explore was in a dangerous condition. There had been a cave-in, the timbers were rotted, and so on.

"We classed him as a liar, though he turned out to be right. We worked our way into the tunnel until we ran against a jam of fallen timbers. The timbers, however, were sound and had plainly been arranged to stop our progress. Banks went back for an ax, while I worked at the roof with a pick to dislodge the center pieces.

"I succeeded and had climbed half-way over into the other side of the tunnel when there came a terrific crash of loose ore from the roof. It fell on both sides of the timbers, pinning me in a hole which would have been a grave but for a few sticks which held the mass of ore above.

"The place was barely large enough to move in, and I knew it was certain death in a few hours unless Banks could dig me out.

"The foul air was getting into my brain, and I think I was actually insane with the fearful dread of being buried alive.

"I had given up all hope and was almost swooning when I heard a strange, scraping sound above me. I yelled, but received no answer. With new energy I threw my body against the walls and tried to pick out the ore from between the lodged timbers. Still came the queer scraping noise, which seemed to come nearer and sounded not unlike the steady grinding of a saw. It seemed to last for hours, though it could hardly have been a minute after when a bit of earth dropped to my feet from the upper end of the wall, and along with it came a big gray mine rat.

"That rat saved my life, for he left a clear hole for his trail, and through it came a breath of fresh air that gave life to me. The fellow had bored his way through from the shaft side of the cave. I stayed there two hours after that, until Banks found the cave, got help and dug me out without breaking the airhole.

"I caught the gray rat too. I kept with four or five hours of sleep. Yet he does not advise people to reduce their accustomed hours of sleep suddenly, as that might have disastrous effects.

Mr. Bruce in discussing disorders of sleep, such as nightmares and the night terrors of children, expresses the belief that the proper treatment is not so much along medicinal or dietetic lines as by psychological means.

To similar causes most insomnia is attributed. Worry is likely to form the starting point for an insomnia habit.

The remedy therefore is to be found not in drugs, but in psychology. Mr. Bruce believes that nearly all insomnia is curable.

Origin of a Phrase.

The phrase "First in war, first in peace," etc., referring to George Washington, originated with Henry Lee of Virginia. In a resolution introduced in the house of representatives he had recommended that a committee be appointed to consider the most suitable manner of paying honor to the memory of the man "First in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his fellow citizens." The phrase was again used in a speech in praise of General Washington made by Mr. Lee in 1799, but this time the word "countrymen" was substituted for "fellow citizens."—Philadelphia Press.

Why the Admiral Was Better.

It was of her uncle, Admiral Rous, the famous racing man, of whom Lady Cardigan told the following story. Mrs. Rous, it appears, was very dictatorial. "And I remember," said Lady Cardigan, "one day after her death calling to inquire how my uncle was. 'Indeed, my lady,' said the servant, 'I may say the admiral is a deal better since Mrs. Rous' death.'—London Globe.

DO YOUR VERY BEST.

Be Earnest and Thorough and You Are Bound to Succeed.

There is a feature of Dickens' character which cannot be too often or too seriously insisted upon, and that is his intense earnestness and thoroughness in everything he did. He said to me more than once:

"My dear boy, do everything at your best. If you do that neither I nor any one else can find fault with you, even if you fail. For myself, I can honestly say that I have taken as great pains with the smallest thing I ever did as with the biggest."

In giving advice to a young author he said on one occasion:

"If you want your public to believe in what you write you must believe in it yourself. When I am describing a scene I can as distinctly see what I am describing as I can see you now. So real are my characters to me that on one occasion I had fixed upon the course which one of them was to pursue. The character, however, got hold of me and made me do exactly the opposite to what I had intended, but I was so sure that he was right and I was wrong that I let him have his own way."

Whatever he did either in work or at play he always gave of his very best. He hated slackness or half heartedness in any shape or form.—Harper's Weekly.

was publicly shot as a traitor to France.

Ney's fellow marshal, Grouchy, does not fare so well. Grouchy was a loyal French patriot, and he had a record of engagement in 200 battles, which offered copious proof that he was no coward. But light headed, irresolute, vacillating he surely was. The Waterloo mistake is merely a repetition of earlier failures of judgment.

But to find the most truly picturesque in the group of lesser generals at Waterloo one must go over to the English side. "As rough, foul mouthed a devil as ever lived," said Wellington himself of Sir Thomas Picton. "But," he added, "no man could do better in the different services assigned to him."

He always carried a stick to tap on the horse's mane when he felt over impatient and wave in the air to emphasize his commands. Sometimes he carried an umbrella, as at Vittoria, where he used it to beat Wellington's butler over the head. The unfortunate man was escorting the headquarters baggage and got in the march of Picton's division.

The visitor to the field of Waterloo, even though he know little of the personality of this fine old fighter, feels a thrill when the guide says, "Here Picton fell."

There could be no sharper contrast to Tom Picton than Sir Rowland Hill. The mild eyed, sweet tempered, ruddy cheeked general, soon to become the most influential politician in Europe, was the complete picture of an English country gentleman.—Chicago Herald.

His Honesty.

Tourist—What sort of landlord have you got here? Irish Native—He's the sort of man if he was put on an uninhabited island that would stick his hands in the pockets of the naked savages and rob them of what they hadn't got.—Chicago Herald.

Never spend your money before you have it.

His Handicap.

"One of the penalties of approaching age is clumsiness," confessed Merton Morose, on whose head the frosts of time have been sifting down for quite a spell. "When I move carelessly about a room I knock over five things on an average, and when I am especially careful I knock over ten."—Judge.

Still Cheerful.

"Did you attend Miss Seresum's birthday party?"

"Oh, yes, I was there."

"What kind of time did you have?"

"The best ever."

"What is your impression of her?"

"She's a game loser."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

after that, until Banks found the cave, got help and dug me out without breaking the airhole.

"I caught the gray rat too. I kept him fed up like a king until he died, and I wouldn't take a lot of money for his skin now."

The Curse.

An Irish authority thus defines as an expert the effects of a well delivered curse: "The belief among the ancient Irish was that a curse once pronounced must fall in some direction. If it has been deserved by him on whom it is pronounced it will fall on him sooner or later, but if it has not then it will return upon the persons who pronounced it. They compare it to a wedge with which a woodman cleaves timber. If it has room to go it will go and cleave the wood, but if it has not it will fly out and strike the woodman himself who is driving it between the eyes."—London Globe.

Enough Knowledge.

"Did you ever stop to think," said the shopkeeper recently as he measured out half a peck of potatoes, "that these potatoes contain sugar, water and starch?"

"No, I didn't," replied the boy. "But I heard father say that you put peas and beans in your coffee, and about a pint of water in every quart of milk you sell."

The subject of natural philosophy was dropped.

Astounding Memories.

Horace Vernet is the best example of visual memory. He could paint a striking portrait of a man, life size, after having once looked at his model. Mozart had a great musical memory. Having heard twice the "Miserere" in the Sistine chapel, he wrote down the full score of it. There are soloists who during twenty-four hours can play the composition of other masters without ever skipping a note.

Pike's Error.

Lieutenant Pike, whose name adorns a lofty peak, was once sent to build a fort near our Mexican (Texas) border. He slipped up on his geography so badly as to place the structure well within foreign territory. It has been believed by many that his orders made ample allowance for such an error.

Entertaining.

Willis—Did they have a good time at your reception last night? Gillis—Yes, the guests enjoyed it hugely. All my wife's arrangements went wrong.

The word "tomorrow" was invented for irresolute people and for children.—Turgenev.

The One Advantage.

"Traded your motor boat for an airplane, eh? What's the idea?"

"Well, there's this about an airplane—even if the engine does break down, you're bound to land somewhere."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Upon investigation, Coun. Graham said he found that the case was more serious than he thought. The accident happened on November 26th, about 5:30 o'clock in the evening, while the lady was going from her home to that of her neighbor. The lady is still under the doctor's care, who stated that the injured arm was getting better, but the injury to the foot was not progressing as well as could be liked. Coun. Graham also stated that corporation employees had gone over this portion of walk, where the accident happened, and thoroughly repaired the walk, having used about two loads of plank in the work. Coun. Graham reported that the best settlement that could be effected was $150 damages, thereby relieving the town from all and any further liability.

Moved by Coun. Graham, seconded by Coun. Waller, that the Streets Committee be empowered to make a settlement with Mrs. Shannon for the sum of $150 in full of all claim against the town for damages received. Carried.

The Christmas Tree.

The Soldiers' Club is giving a Christmas tree to the men of the 80th Battalion, who are stationed in town, and at 5 o'clock on Christmas Day the Rose Dream fairies and brownies will dance around the tree in the armories. The mighty Christmas cake, which is being donated by Mr. Arthur Caton, will be cut by Major Gray, and each of the soldiers will be given a piece. Everyone grown-ups and children, should be there to see the soldiers get their Christmas stockings. There will be plenty of room in the armories—admission 5 cents. Do not forget that contributions will be taken at the Town Hall for the soldiers' Christmas treat. A booth will be erected there, and vegetables, fruit, poultry, socks and any gifts which may be put upon the tree will be very gratefully accepted. Some contributions have already arrived, for which we are very grateful. Mr. Arthur Caton has very generously offered to give us a mammoth Christmas cake, and Mr. G. P. Sproule has also been very generous, giving the oranges for the tree.

Put out your waste paper for the Boy Scouts on Saturday.

The "Hard Times Dance."

The committee of the soldiers' club have issued invitations for a Hard Times Dance, to be held in the Town Hall, on Wednesday evening, December 29th. We are calling it a "Hard Times Dance" because most of us feel the effects of the present financial stringency, and because we take this way of raising funds for a worthy cause and at the same time introducing a little festivity into the town life. For this reason we ask everybody who comes to the hall on that night to pay the admittance fee, whether he or she dances or not, and we hope that our guests who are unable to attend will contribute, although they cannot enjoy the dance with us. The money raised will be added to the Regimental Fund of the 80th Battalion. A regiment consists of twelve hundred men, who are of course provided by the Government with food, clothes and lodging, but with none of these luxuries which civilians are in the habit of considering necessities of life, such as jam or pie for dinner, extra socks or clothing, tobacco etc. Then there is one very large item, namely instruments for the Regimental band, which will cost in the neighborhood of two thousand dollars. Everyone who has read of the hardships which our men endure at the front, and of the wonderful way in which music inspires exhausted men with new courage and strength will realize the great importance of the regimental band. It is to provide these things that the regimental Fund exists. Will you help us to swell it?

England, Nov. 22nd, 1915

L. M. Brooks.

Napanee, Ont.

Dear Friend, Mr. Brooks:—

Receiving a box from home on Thursday last, I sure was delighted to see a fine big box of cigars, which were to be sent to me as a present from you.

Now Mr. Brooks, I cannot express my appreciation or thanks to you in words for such a gift of good old Canadian tobacco, but will assure you that I am certainly obliged to you for it.

Now as you may know that we are a few thousand miles from home and that Canadian mail only comes once in a week or two and that boxes are few and far between and as there are only seventeen of our old original machines Gun Section left, we share our boxes from Canada up, and there are the other sixteen boys of the Section here to-night, who also ask me to send their thanks to you, sir.

Well Mr. Brooks, in regards to the war, There is not much stir these days, although we see a number of wounded every day, who come back from Flanders, but that happens every day, and can only say that we are accustomed to it now. All the boys who were in our bunch under Lieut.

Travers in Napanee, that are here are well and certainly doing fine. Although we are all split up now and in different branches of the work, and,
believe me, thanks to the training
Mr. Travers gave us, we are all getting along fine. Arthur Laughlin, R.

McConachie, J. Turner, H. Salisbury,
C. Leggett, Hobbs and Gray, who were with us, are now in France.
Wiggy, or Sergeant Weagant, and the rest of the boys are still here in camp.

You might not know it, Mr. Brooks, but out of our twenty-five who enlisted in Napanee under Mr. Travers, and out of twenty-one, who came across there were ten made n.c.o.'s so, sir, that is some per centage from Napanee. Also I had the honor to be one of eight men picked from the battalion to take part in the Lord Mayor's parade as representatives from Canada, so you can see that Napanee need not be ashamed of the boys who enlisted under Mr. Travers, who is the busiest and jolliest officers in the battalion.

Well Mr. Brooks, I will close now, thanking you again for the cigars and hoping you and family are well.

base yet. I have missed two grants, but I think I will go with the next one. Well, Edna, if you don't mind when you get this letter I wish you would give it to the both papers. I would like for them to know what I have gone through. I arrived in England on the fourth day of July. It was some place to see. We went to a place called Folkstone. We got there on the fifth day of July, and went into camp. The name of the camp was called Caesar's Hill. It was a good place to camp, when it was nice, but when it rained, you would walk in about a foot or two of water. We had to have rubber boots to get to the cook house. Well, we stayed there until July 27th, and then we went to a place called Sedd for two weeks' shooting. We had nineteen miles to walk, with all of our belongings on our back. We started at 8.30 in the morning and got in Sedd at 4.30 in the afternoon. I tell you if we had had to walk two miles more I could not have made it, for my legs were so stiff. After we had got done shooting we went back to Caesar's camp and stayed there until the 23rd of August, and then we were told that we were a Base Battalion. Then they took us to the base in England. That was at a place called West Sandling Camp, Hythe Kent. Well, Edna, it was some place. We had rain there for fifteen days straight. For one week we did nothing else but rest. We could not work for the mud was so deep that if you stepped in it you would go right over your boots. After we were there for about three weeks an order came in for a draft of men for the front with the 21st Battalion. They did not pick on me for I was on pass in London for five days, but when I came back there was another draft called and I was picked to go. I was the only Napane boy that went with this draft, and I tell you it was lonesome for me for a while, but I soon got used to it. We left England on the 10th of November for France, and got there on the 12th. We landed at a place called Le-havre. Now, believe me, it is some place. There are some of the nicest buildings that I think I ever saw in my life. When we landed from the boat we had about seven miles to walk, and that is how we came to see so much of Le-havre. We went to a Canadian general base at a place called Ronelles. You can talk about Canada being a cold country, but for all of that I would rather be in the old land once again. It is better than France. It rains, or hails, every day. We will be at the base for about a week or so more and then we will go on up to the front. If ever I come through this and get back to Napane I will tell you a story, the likes of which you never heard before. When I left England all of the Napane boys were all right. You can give my love to all the people in the old home town, Napane, and also if there are any of the boys left at home tell them to "act like men," put on the King's colors, and come where I am. We need them all.

Well, I think this is all I will say for this time. Do not be worrying about me for I will be all right. Bye-bye, answer by return mail.

The Society acknowledges with thanks, a donation of $230 from the Red, White and Blue Club, said amount to be applied on the Ambulance Fund.

A letter has been received from Headquarters, asking for our continued co-operation and assistance in the work of preparing "News from Home" and enclosing circulars showing how the soldiers have appreciated our interest taken in this special patriotic work. A letter from the trenches reads:—

"The budgets stand any amount of mud and rough usage. They are passed down the trenches or about the bivouac, and all of us enjoy them immensely. The compilers of all the budgets seem to have the happy knack of putting in just the little bits of home news, that we all want; and though it is not safe to put one down, (as someone is sure to steal it) yet one knows that it is missing, it is being read and not used to feed the fire, or clean the mud off boots—the usual fate of a newspaper."

Will all who are willing to help in this good work, kindly send in their books at as early a date as possible?

Allies Effect Safe Retreat, Saloniki Organized as Base

LONDON, Dec. 13.—The British and French troops have successfully carried their retirement from Serbia across the Greek frontier, and by an arrangement with the Greek Government a clear road has been left for them to fall back on Saloniki, which is being organized as a base.

The German official report to-day claims that "approximately two English divisions were annihilated" during the retirement, but this is considered here an exaggeration. Accounts from Athens and Saloniki say the retreat was carried out in an orderly manner, and without heavy losses. By the destruction of railway bridges and roads, and by stubborn rear-guard actions, in one of which two companies of the Iniskilling regiment sacrificed themselves to save their comrades, the Bulgarians were kept at a fairly safe distance.

ENEMY TO FOLLOW.

The question now arises whether the Bulgarians and Austro-Germans intend to follow the British and French troops into Greece, and what action the Greek Government will take should they do so. The impression gained from despatches emanating in Athens is that neither the Bulgarians nor the Turks, who also are reported to have arrived near the frontier, would be welcomed in Greece, and that, therefore, if it has been decided to follow the entente allies the task will be undertaken by Austrians and Germans. However, with the railroad destroyed, it may be some days before Greece is called upon to take action, and by that time the Anglo-French forces should be safe in the defences of Saloniki and under the guns of their ships.

The remnants of the Serbian army are still resisting the Austrians and Bulgarians in Albania, while the Austrians are making very slow progress in their efforts to overwhelm Montenegro, where heavy fighting continues.

OUT OF MACEDONIA?

The French and British have been entirely expelled from Macedonian territory, it is officially announced to-day by German army headquarters, the advancing army under General Todoroff occupying Doiran and Gievigli. Berlin statement is:

"Balkan theatre of war: The situation has not materially changed. More than 900 prisoners were brought in yesterday by the army group of Gen. Von Koevess. (Wireless version gave number of prisoners as 500.)

"At Ipek twelve modern guns which the Serbians had buried were captured.

"Behind our front more than 1000 straggling Serbians were taken prisoner during the last few days.

"In Macedonia the army of Gen. Todoroff captured the villages of Doiran and Gievigli. No Englishmen or Frenchmen are now at liberty on Macedonian soil.

"Approximately two British divisions have been annihilated in these engagements."

Cymric.

Dr. Sharpe said that when the Germans took Belgrade they hauled down the American flag over the Serbian hospital and raised the German colors, remarking: "We don't want the American flag in Belgrade."

"After the city had been entered by the Germans," said Dr. Sharpe, "I sent my commissioners to find out what had happened to Dr. Ryan."

"The commissioners returned and told me Dr. Ryan was a prisoner. He had been wounded while going about the city collecting injured in his automobile. My commissioners told me that the Austrian soldiers tore down the American flag at the orders of their German commanders. They then hoisted the German flag."

SERBS' TRAGIC RETREAT.

The tragic story of the Serbian nation's retreat before the invaders without food was told by Dr. Sharpe.

"The Germans entered Belgrade on October 7," he said. "Three days of terrific fighting followed. During this time 120,000 shells were fired by the Germans from 500 guns. Then the exodus began."

"Three million persons—old men, women and children—retreated before the Serbian army. There was absolutely no food in Serbia. There is none now."

A FRIGHTFUL SCENE.

"I left Belgrade on the evening of October 9. The road for fifteen miles outside the city was choked with refugees. We left in a howling rain. It was the most frightful scene I have ever witnessed. But even in this desperate circumstance there were slight touches of humor. Here and there an aged man was urging a pig along, while others held canaries in their hands or carried a few worthless household chattels."

Dr. W. D. Sharpe was called to London last July by Dr. Donald Armour, who invited him to take charge of a hospital corps raised by Lady Troubridge, wife of Admiral Troubridge, who was in command of a British naval contingent sent to aid the Serbs, and which corps was with them all through the retreat and has arrived at Albania. Dr. Sharpe's corps was driven out of Belgrade and again from Nish when these places were bombarded by the Teutons and Bulgars and the hospital destroyed. Dr. Sharpe, who is 38 years old and married, is a graduate of Queen's University. He has been thirteen years at Brampton.

APPROXIMATELY TWO BRITISH DIVISIONS have been annihilated in these engagements."

BULGARS LOST 8000.

Anglo-French troops have been retreating across the frontier since early Saturday, according to information received by the Greek military authorities at Athens to-day.

After beating back a wave of attacking Bulgars that rolled up against their lines all day Saturday, the British north of Lake Doiran were forced to fall back to their second line. They rallied and were holding up the enemy's advance in a violent struggle when the last information was received at Saloniki.

As on Thursday and Friday the British were subjected to the heaviest assaults in Saturday's fighting. The Bulgarians made repeated attempts to break the British line and surround small detachments. Two assaults against the British front cost the attacking forces 8000 men killed and wounded.

BRITISH FIRE DEADLY.

A grand assault was ordered by the Bulgarian commander, when the first charge was hurled back. The Bulgarians advanced through a thick fog in dense formation to within 500 yards of the British trenches. British machine guns and rifles suddenly swept their front with a frightful fire. Those who escaped the first half of bullets ran swiftly forward until within 200 yards of the British trenches. A second shower of bullets mowed them down by hundreds. The survivors broke and fled.

BULGARS ON BORDER.

Bulgarian advance guards have reached the Greek frontier at several points in their pursuit of the retreating Anglo-French. Their movements, according to Saloniki despatches this afternoon, are being closely watched by Greek military. No official statement is obtainable here as to what course the government intends to follow if the Bulgars cross the Border.

Big Force of Enemy
Near Greek Frontier

LONDON, Dec. 14.—A force of 40,000 Bulgarians and an equal number of Austro-Germans is being concentrated between Monastir and the Greek frontier, according to a despatch to The Times from its Saloniki correspondent. This force is said to include a considerable number of cavalry troops. Heavy fighting, the despatch said, was still in progress on Sunday in the neighborhood of Lake Doiran.

Bulgar Regiment Wiped Out:
Trap Set By The French

SALONIKI, Dec. 12.—In the desile of the Demir Kapu, during the Anglo-French retirement, the Bulgarians suffered a crushing defeat. By strategy the enemy was made to believe that the French were in retreat through the desile. They attempted to pursue the French, and when the troops were well in the desile two French regiments, with a battery of machine guns cleverly hidden, suddenly opened a murderous fire. The Eleventh Bulgarian Regiment was exterminated, and the remainder of the Bulgarian force broke and fled panic-stricken.

Christmas Time

The Christmas time is coming.

The birds have quit their humming,
They have left their nests and flown away
To come again some springtime day.

The Christmas time will soon be here

With its holly-berries and bright good cheer
The snow birds have come with their cheep, cheep, cheep
And the sleigh bells ring where the snow lies deep.

But many a home will be lonely this year

For many a mother will shed bitter tears
For the stalwart son that marched away
Now lies in a battlefield trench to-day.

There is Gods poor we may help along poverty's road

For their steps have grown weary and heavy their load
Their children have grown hungry and few are their joys
We can help them with food and share with them our toys.

Let us not forget that on Christmas morn

In a Bethlehem stable our Saviour was born
He known all our sorrows. He feels all our cares
He is our brother and friend and everything shares.

FIGHT HEAVY ODDS.

The Division is reported to have fought well against very heavy odds, and it was largely due to the gallantry of the troops, especially the Connaught Rangers, the Munster Fusiliers and the Dublin Fusiliers, that the withdrawal was successfully accomplished.

Owing to the mountainous nature of the country, it had been necessary to place eight field guns for the purpose of defence in positions from which it was impossible to withdraw them when the retirement took place.
Our casualties amounted to 1,500 men.

GREAT WAR FILMS

WASHINGTON—War in all its naked horror, but with all its soul-stirring episodes, its pathos and its glory as shown to Ambassador Jusserand and a distinguished company at the French Embassy when the official pictures of the recent terrible fighting on the western front loaned by the French Government were displayed for the first time in America.

For two and a half hours more than a hundred of the most distinguished diplomats and high officials in Washington and their wives made no attempt to conceal their emotion as battle scene after battle scene was projected upon the screen, and they saw everything they could have seen if they had really been present at the French front. The guests included members of the Supreme Court and the Cabinet.

120,000 IN ONE PICTURE.

In one picture alone 120,000 men were shown—more men than there are in the entire American army—and as they passed, infantry, cavalry and artillery, with all the traditional spirit of the French soldier, men were moved to cheer and women to weep.

Some of the scenes were so realistic that it did not seem possible that the operators who took them could have survived. In the bombardment of the Hartmansweillerkopf in Alsace, which has changed hands more often than any other position in the war, and one slope of which is held by the French and the other by the Germans, the shells could be seen bursting in turns over the trenches and in front of the moving picture camera.

This picture also showed the actual use of poisonous gas. The German trenches were quite plain, like the bars of a huge gridiron, and from them could be seen rising the thick clouds of smoke, never more than ten or twelve feet from the ground, which rolled slowly over toward the French trenches.

Another most impressive scene that brought home more vividly the enormous quantities of guns and ammunition in use was a film showing a movement by one hundred batteries of the famous French 3-inch field gun, the terrible "Soixant-quinze", the sight of these six hundred cannon,

GERMANS TO CONTROL UNITED STATES ARMY

Word has reached members of the American legion in Toronto that German agents in New York have already started a movement for a second great world's war to succeed a patched-up peace in Europe. They aim to secure control of the new United States land forces by having them divided into ten armies under officers from Germany. When it suits Germany, hostilities are to be incited between the United States and Japan, so that Great Britain may be drawn in. This is with a view to England being struck at on behalf of Germany thru Canada, by American troops, under German generals.

PRO-GERMAN PLOT.

The plot is being started by a movement to foment anti-British and anti-Canadian sentiment on the pretext that Great Britain and Japan are in a conspiracy to pick a quarrel with the United States and make a sudden attack upon her.

The plot to put the prospective United States army under control of German officers, is disclosed in a copy of an appeal to pro-Germans in United States just sent out by G. S. Viereck, of 1122 Broadway, N. Y., in an appeal to pro-Germans in the United States, in which he says: "Canada has been stirred from the depth of her peacefulness. Now that her armies have fought side by side with the English, now that the spirit of militarism and the spirit of conquest have entered her heart as a nation, together with her undisguised contempt for the United States, we must be prepared to meet her in battle if Great Britain and her ally in Tokio give the signal."

GERMAN SAVED WASHINGTON.

"It was the genius of the German General von Steuben that saved Washington from catastrophe. Let us not depend on the chivalry of a Steuben, who may or may not offer his sword to us in the hour of need."

"Let us summon at once, not one, but ten Steubens from Germany to organize our army and to make it efficient."

FOE'S MOUNTAIN GUNS COMPELLED RETIREMENT

LONDON, Dec. 13.—The special correspondent of Reuter's Telegram Company with the British Headquarters Staff in the Balkans thus describes the retreat of the allies:—

"Last week General Serrail had already prepared to evacuate advanced positions along the Cerna front. On Saturday Krivolak was abandoned, and, after establishing a first bridgehead at Demir Kapu, the French made a second bridgehead at Grabec, after withdrawing all stores and destroying tunnels and bridges on the railway. Meanwhile the Bulgarians and Germans, in constantly increasing strength, began to bear heavily on the point of junction of the Franco-Prussian lines, especially threatening the Strumitsa road, which forms the main artery of our position.

"The Germans soon began to make things hot for our first line. They had weather conditions in their favor, and under cover of mist which prevented our longer-range field guns from registering with accuracy, they brought numerous mountain guns to positions impracticable for our less mobile pieces, and opened a murderous fire at close range. Exposed to this hot gruelling, and threatened partly on our flank owing to the French retirement, our positions soon became untenable, and the men of the Irish division were withdrawn to a second line prepared a long time in advance. During these engagements the fighting was often at very close quarters owing to the mist, but the gallant Connaught Rangers, the Dublin Fusiliers and the Munster Fusiliers repeatedly drove the enemy off with the bayonet with heavy losses.

"The superiority of numbers of the enemy and his mountain guns, however, in the long run prevailed and we retired to our second line, the French having in the meanwhile abandoned the bridgehead at Grabec and Hill No. 516. The importance of our stand in these positions is difficult to exaggerate, because had the Bulgarians succeeded in pushing through they would have cut off the retreat of the main body of the French force, as well as the British, and would probably have inflicted grave reverses.

"Since Tuesday the pressure of the Bulgarians' offensive has relaxed and our new positions are very strong."

The next Big Serial Photo Play at Wonderland will be "THE BROKEN COIN," featuring Grace Cunard and Francis Ford, the great actors who captivated our patrons in "Lucille Love." First installment Friday even-brought home more vividly the enormous quantities of guns and ammunition in use was a film showing a movement by one hundred batteries of the famous French 3-inch field gun, the terrible "Soixant-Quinze", the sight of these six hundred cannon, with the ammunition limbers and horses passing in full gallop, electrified the spectators.

CHAMPAGNE BATTLE SHOW.

Most impressive of all were the wonderful pictures of the recent advance in Champagne where more than ten thousand feet of film is employed to tell the whole story of the battle more vividly and more truthfully than could any war correspondent or historian.

First the great preliminary bombardment, showing every kind of gun in continuous use, from the "Seventy-fives" to the huge naval guns and heavy mortars. There were guns everywhere, over every piece of ground where one could be placed and they fired so uninterruptedly that shells fell upon the German lines at the rate of twenty a second. The picture shows it in a way that no description can.

Then there was the advance of the French infantry, and as the troops go forward in columns of two and then deploy one realizes how much of the spectacular has been taken from modern fighting by the intensive machine gun fire, and what nerve is needed to advance in the face of what must seem like certain death.

Never has the devastation of war been shown as in these pictures. The whole Champagne front as it passes on the screen looks like a huge machine shop, fifteen miles long and three miles broad, that might have been destroyed by fire, with an infinite variety of twisted iron work and concrete and barbed wire and overturned cannon, all utterly destroyed and swept away by the hail of high explosive shells.

SEE 21,000 PRISONERS.

Then came the result of victory, results that cannot be questioned or denied, 21,000 unwounded German prisoners passing on the screen, and at the sight the spectators could not restrain their joy.

And here too was one of those little touches of comedy that must relieve the horrors of war. The German prisoners were so numerous that to lessen the chances of any of them running away, one could see little French soldiers passing from rank to rank and cutting the buttons off the trousers of their prisoners who, bagged in the huge cumbersome breeches of the German uniform, had to hold up their pants with both hands in order to march along.

Austria Expects Rupture With U. S.

LONDON, Dec. 14.—A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Amsterdam says:—

Reports from Vienna say that the American note concerning the sinking of the Italian steamer Ancona has caused intense anger in the Austrian Government, and a diplomatic rupture is considered probable. The question before Baron Burian, the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister is only whether a rupture with the United States would not force Germany to a like step.

"Count Tisza, the Hungarian premier, has been summoned to Vienna to discuss the situation with the government on the arrival of a Steuben, who may or may not offer his sword to us in the hour of need.

"Let us summon at once, not one, but ten Steubens from Germany to organize our army and to make it efficient."

Teuton Conspiracy To Destroy C.P.R., Tunnels

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Dec. 15.—The Providence Journal prints this morning the text of an affidavit made by Johannes Henrikus van Koolbergen in San Francisco on Aug. 27 last. This affidavit goes into much circumstantial evidence with regard to an alleged organized German conspiracy on the Pacific coast with the object of blowing up munition plants, on which indictments have been returned by a federal grand jury in San Francisco against Baron George Wilhelm Von Brincken, C. C. Crowley and Mrs. Margaret Cornell.

The affidavit asserts that Franz Bopp, German consul-general at San Francisco, personally supervised the activities of Koolbergen and directed the attempt to hire him and blow up tunnels on the Canadian Pacific Railroad in May of the present year.

NEWSPAPER STORIES MISLED.

The affidavit also declares that Bopp ordered the money for this work, $1900, to be paid to Koolbergen under the impression that the work had been accomplished when as a Canadian Pacific officials working in conjunction with Koolbergen, who caused stories to be inserted in the Canadian papers telling of the destruction of important tunnels by mysterious accidents.

The affidavit also declares that George Wilhelm Von Brincken, Bopp's assistant in the San Francisco consulate, worked out all the details of the plot, and that he and Bopp went over maps of the Canadian Pacific railway with Koolbergen in the consulate and directed the latter where to blow up the tunnels where they would interfere most with the transportation of munitions of war. The affidavit states also that Koolbergen was instructed to steal the dynamite for these plans from certain construction camps on the C.P.R., the location of which was outlined to him by Bopp and Brincken.

PRESENT FOREGLEAMS OF COMING GLORY

Kingdom of Messiah at Threshold
---Reign of Evil to End.

"Time of the End" Now Here—Day of Wrath Precedes the Reign of Blessing—Man's Selfishness the Cause—Human Plans and Theories to Prove Abortive—Time of Trouble Now Begun—New Order to Be Set Up on Ruins of Old.

PASTOR RUSSELL

Dec. 5.—Pastor Russell gave a masterful address here today, from the text, "What hath God wrought!" (Numbers 23:23.) He declared that we are living in the most wonderful period of human history. On every side are contrivances for man's blessing. Evidently the all the world may enjoy release from excessive toil and hardship. So gradually have these blessings come that we scarcely realize what progress has been made.

Twenty-five hundred years ago, the Pastor explained, the Bible foretold these blessings as characteristic of "The Time of the End." (Daniel 12:4.) Bible students find that this period began with 1799 A.D. For more than a century we have been living in "The Time of the End." This phrase means, not the end of the world, but of the reign of Sin and Death. We are entering a New Era, in which all the evil conditions of the past six thousand years will terminate. Soon earth's great Sabbath, the Golden Age of prophet and bard, will be ushered in.

While these blessings are designed for all, yet because of man's ingrained selfishness they have gravitated into the hands of a few. This has caused pride on one side and jealousy on the other. As a result, an irrepressible conflict is about to be precipitated. Already we see a great war of nations, each endeavoring to get the lion's share of the blessings which God has provided in these latter days. The nations have become jealous and envious of one another as they see opportunities of wealth and power opening up; and this gruesome conflict has resulted.

Present Blessings From God.

The speaker urged his audience not to lose sight of the fact that our wonderful blessings did not come by man's ingenuity, that just as brilliant men have lived in the past, but that God is letting in the light of the dawning New Dispensation. Behind this is another thought. If in their imperfect condition mankind can accomplish so much, what will they do when made perfect under Messiah's Kingdom? Then again, if God's feeble creatures can accomplish so much, who can measure the power of the Almighty—perfect in Wisdom, Justice, Power, and Love?

When we consider what God hath wrought in connection with human

SIGNALS FROM AIR

Soot Clouds, Mirror Flashes Bombs Are Used.

To an army commander in a military aeroplane is its private hostile artillery and gun rather than its bomb drop abilities. Thus it is very necessary a pilot several thousand feet should be able to communicate with the headquarters staff on earth to convey the necessary information for the guidance of gun shells at targets miles away.

A very ingenious method of firing from an aeroplane is by soot clouds. An apparatus lampblack rests near the head of the aviator, and when he presses some of this soot passes down and is discharged in a black pipe is so delicately arranged that clouds may be small or large. The operator can spell out the graphic code in little clouds can be read from the earth aviator is 4,000 feet high.

Another clever means of from air craft is that carries means of lamps and mirror which has a flash of 10,000 candle power sends piercing rays of light from a tube fitted with powerful glasses. When a message operator directs his flasher in the required direction, presses a button, a brilliant light flashes out short, according to the pressure of the button. Officers on earth receive the signal and may send a reply in the being provided with similar lamps. The rays of light are almost as bright as sunlight that they can be seen with the eye for a distance of four miles daytime and at night for a distance of eight miles.

When military aviators will a written communication to without descending they use a genious bomb. This contains a explosive charge so that it falls sharp and firm and strikes the ground a distance of 100 feet, which sets fire to the top, and thus the location of is indicated day or night.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

MONTREAL, Dec. 13.—At the Montreal Stock Yards, west end market, a feature of the trade was the increased offerings of choice butchers' stock, among which there were some extra choice steers, heifers, cows and bulls, suitable for the Christmas trade, but the display of such stock was not as large as in former years at this period. The weather was reasonable and favorable for the trade, and in consequence there was a better demand from packers and butchers, and the market was more active than it has been of late. A few full loads of extra choice steers sold as high as $8, and some picked lots at $8.25 to $8.50, while mixed lots of steers, cows and heifers brought $7.25, and some fancy heavy-weight bulls, ranging from 1800 to 2500 pounds each, $6.50 to $7 per hundred.

The strong feeling which has characterized the market for sheep and lambs for some weeks now still continues to be the feature of this branch of the trade, and prices for the former scored another advance today of 25c, and the latter 50c per hundred pounds, which is attributed to the continued good demand and the somewhat limited supplies coming forward. Calves stronger, with prices 1/2c to 1c higher. Demand for good milk-fed stock, selling at 9c to 9 1/2c, and grass-fed at 5c to 8c per pound.

Hogs show a further decline of 25c per hundred pounds. Demand was fair, and sales of selected lots were made at $9.25 to $9.50, sows at $7.25 to $7.50, and stags at $4.62 1/2 to $4.75 per hundred pounds, weighed off cars.

A Monstrous Tide.

The bay of Fundy forms a cul-de-sac at which the Atlantic ocean seems to have taken a special spite and at regular intervals pours into it an enormous amount of water. Take the harbor of St. John as an illustration of what this mighty tide must be. In most parts of the world a tide of ten feet is considered something abnormal, but at St. John it rises twenty to twenty-four feet in good weather. In stormy weather the monotony is varied by the high water mark being pushed up even ten or fifteen feet higher.

the Almighty—perfect in Wisdom, Justice, Power, and Love?

When we consider what God hath wrought in connection with humanity we are still more astonished. The human body can oil, feed, and manipulate itself, can think for itself, can direct its own course. If mankind could make such a machine, they would have something of which to be proud. When we realize that all our wonderful inventions are but imperfect copies of our Creator's works, that man merely uses principles which God has employed in the past, we see clearly that man was made an earthly image of his Heavenly Creator.

New York Times.

Light Breaking Through Darkness.

The Pastor showed that while we have realized God's Wisdom and Power as manifested in nature, we have been seriously handicapped by false doctrines grossly misrepresenting our Creator as devoid of Justice and Love. These misconceptions came down from the Dark Ages. But the incoming Age is scattering the ignorance and superstition of the past, and is bringing in the light of the knowledge of God's glory.—Habakkuk 2:14.

To see this clearly we must look in the right direction. There are people to-day who are looking toward the west for the sunrise. We see learned men who have knowledge on many subjects making the mistake of thinking that Evolution is our God and, not seeing an intelligent God, holding that Evolution is man's only hope—that ultimately there will be "the survival of the fittest." Think of present conditions in Europe! The fittest are falling in battle. The unfit are left at home to propagate the families of the future. Evolutionists do not stop to think that at the present rate of increase the world would one day be vastly overcrowded, that coal and oil fields would be exhausted, and that a limit would be reached in other directions—that things cannot continue at the present rate for any length of time.

But the Bible points out that man's extremity will be God's opportunity. After permitting mankind to have all these blessings of our day, He will allow them to dash themselves to pieces in a great cataclysm of trouble, to make shipwreck of all their boasted twentieth century civilization. But before mankind's complete destruction, Messiah's Kingdom will intervene and speak peace to the nations. After the storm there will be a great calm. Christ and His glorified Church will be God's Channel for the restoration of whosoever will of all mankind.

Settled the Difficulty.

An insurance agent had vainly tried to persuade a man to insure his valuables against burglary. "A safe's all very well," he admitted, "but look at the constant trouble of locking up and unlocking to see if your things are all right."

"I've got over that difficulty," declared the weary listener.

"Indeed!" said the agent incredulously. "How?"

"I've had a window put in the safe," growled the other.

which ought truly asked in surprise.

"My fight, of course," Daly retorted. "Why, it was a draw and you did well after that bad fifth round." Thiry answered. "Didn't you hear the decision?"

"I don't remember a thing after the fourth round," Daly answered. "The reason I went into that other room just now was to overhear something about the bout without having to ask any questions. Nobody said anything, and that is why I had to ask you. I was afraid I had been knocked out."

Money and Politics.

In his reminiscences of Grover Cleveland George F. Parker tells a story of the prodigal expenditures in politics. A rich man who had been nibbling at the Democratic nomination for governor of New York asked William C. Whitney's advice. This is the advice: "Of course you ought to run. Make your preliminary canvass, and when you have put in $200,000 you will have become so much interested in it that you will feel like going ahead and spending some money."

Turtles of the Amazon.

The fresh water turtle of the Amazon grows to a great size, especially on the upper river, where full grown ones three feet in length, two in width and weighing 200 pounds are often seen. Every house has its little pond or corral to hold a stock of these animals through the season of dearth, the wet months. Those who have Indians in their employ send them out for a month when the waters are low to select a stock; others purchase their supply.

Watches Are Sympathetic.

Superstition or not, I am half sure the watch is alive and knows its owner; that it has some sort of sympathy with the person who carries it. Do you not know the bitterness of sending your own watch to hospital and harboring another—a patient—in your pocket? It lies—always. The scientific man reduces the whole matter to rhythmic motion. To put it roughly, the watch likes—or does not like—your particular skip, jump, stump or decent walk. Really the scientist has nothing much more to say about it as a conclusion, but that—rhythmic—notion. The touch of the watch on the heart.—London Chronicle.

Oldest Temperance Lecture.

A foreign exchange has this interesting paragraph: "There is still in existence an Egyptian papyrus of the date of 3,500 years before the Christian era, which contains the following caution: 'My son, do not linger in the wineshop or drink too much wine. It causeth thee to utter words regarding thy neighbor which thou rememberest not. Thou fallest upon the ground; thy limbs become weak as those of a child. One cometh to trade with thee and findeth thee so. Then say they, "Take away the fellow, for he is drunk!'"

This is believed to be the oldest temperance lecture in existence.—Christian Herald.

THE BARD OF AVON

Now It Is Alleged That Shakespeare Was Illiterate.

COULD NOT WRITE, IT IS SAID.

An Expert In Such Things Claims
That an Analysis of the Signatures
Left by the Immortal William Strips
Him of All Literary Credit.

The question of who did "write Shakespeare" does not concern William McConway, who has written a monograph on his Shakespeare theories, so much as "could William Shakespeare of Stratford-on-Avon write at all?" Mr. Conway is convinced that whoever did write the plays, it was not the bard of Avon, so called. He bases his belief on evidence presented by certain existing signatures made by William Shakespeare and which seem to prove him to have been an illiterate man.

Mr. McConway admits that, though so evidently illiterate, Shakespeare possessed native ability, manifested by his money getting faculties, and adds the fact that as a theatrical manager Shakespeare secured to himself the plays that he did and thus stamped himself a competent man of business and a judge of public taste. But in regard to certain deficiencies exhibited by his signature Mr. McConway, after having made a study of the characteristics of signatures, says:

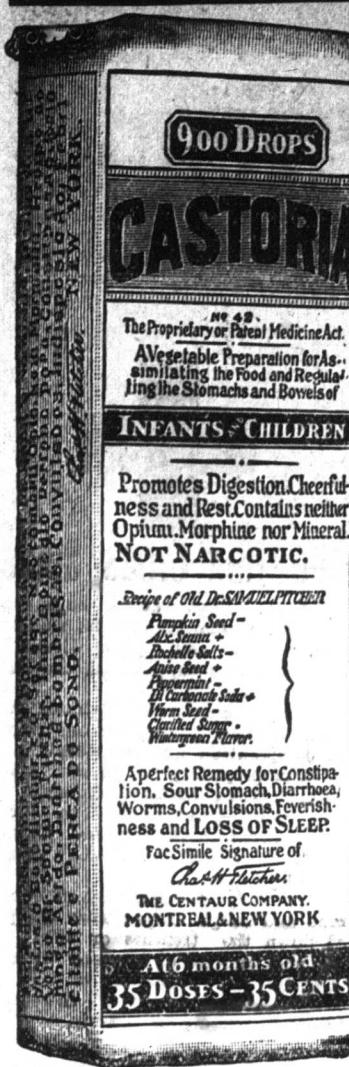

"Observations of the efforts and performances of illiterate men in the laborious production of signatures has led me to the conclusion that here was a man ashamed of his inability to write, made so by his associations and the rise in his condition of life, seeking to cover his intellectual nakedness with a garment provided by a sympathizing friend.

"The sympathizing friend in this instance floated into the imagination in the form of some scrivener who 'set the copy' so laboriously reproduced in the form of the signatures to the deed and mortgage of 1613 and to the will of 1616."

Mr. McConway refers to the original documents unearthed by Professor Wallace in 1910, and his theory is that the solicitor who drew up the papers of the mortgage and of the will is the man who made for Shakespeare a copy of his name, which the illiterate Shakespeare then followed in scrawling, uncertain imitation to make the signatures to the documents. This saved him from the humiliation of having to make "his X mark."

A second document put in evidence by Mr. McConway is a fragment relating to litigation in respect to certain money interests in the Globe theater. In this fragment appears, in two places, the name "Wm. Shakespeare," written by the professional scrivener who prepared the case. Mr. McConway points out that Shakespeare's own signature appended is a laborious imitation, performed by a man who could not read his chirography when he had written it.

Mr. McConway is convinced that this

ESSENTIALS OF PITCHING.

First Comes Control, Then Knowledge of a Batter's Weakness.

"Control is the thing," say all the great pitchers, and all the great pitchers agree that a study of the batsman is next in importance. There are certain batters who can punish certain kinds of balls, while against a different style of pitching they are correspondingly weak. If a batter likes a fast ball at the waist line it becomes the duty of the wise pitcher never to give him a ball to his liking. Perhaps he is weak on a curve ball at the knee on the outside. The foxy pitcher makes a specialty of offering him that kind of delivery in abundance. In deciding what is best to pitch to the various batters a brainy catcher is of wonderful assistance.

Then, too, the pitcher must study situations. When he divines that a sacrifice is the play it is usually the best plan to keep the ball high. Such a ball is harder to meet squarely, while it is almost impossible to give it definite direction. On a low ball the skillful bunter can usually place it toward first or third, as is desired. For Japan's Toothache Altars.

"Japan is dotted with shrines," said a traveler. "One that I examined closely resembled a little house about three feet wide and as many high, with a peaked roof and its front wall taken out. Attached to bamboo rods across the front were many slips of paper on which sufferers from toothache had written their prayers and promises to do acts of charity and kindness if the pain which brought them there disappeared. We were told that at least one toothache altar might be found in any Japanese town."

It was in 1848 that he noticed a glistening object in the bed of a stream, which happened to be a nugget of gold. tation, performed by a man who could not read his chirography when he had written it.

Mr. McConway is convinced that this scrivener is the man who made the copy which enabled "Willm. Shakespeare" to execute legal papers without the humiliation of the "X mark." The rule of legal procedure required the evidence to be written out and signed by the witness before leaving the presence of the court.

"Special attention is called to this signature," says Mr. McConway, "as it is much abbreviated. The 'great dramatist,' who had at his command, as evidenced by his putative works, a wealth of words measuring five times the number gathered into the dictionary of the time, uses but a moiety of the characters which he had been taught to use as the ideograph to represent his name.

"We are told that he was instructed to appear later before the court for a further examination, but the record nowhere shows that he ever appeared, although the other witnesses appeared a second time. Would they be considered cynical who might surmise that the position in which Shakespeare of Stratford found himself when called upon to attach his signature to the record in open court was one of extreme embarrassment in that he could not without some exposure of ignorance use his 'copy' to guide his pen?"

Sons In China.

definite direction. On a low ball the skillful bunter can usually place it toward first or third, as is desired. For batters who have a tendency to pull away pitchers usually keep the ball on the outside, mostly depending on the curve. Seldom do batters who pull meet such balls squarely. As a rule they hit fast balls on the inside hard. The batter who hugs the plate closely and steps into the ball is bothered most by a fast ball on the inside, as it has a tendency to make him meet the ball on the handle, thereby losing most of the force he puts into the swing.

The pitcher must also take into consideration the position of his infield and must know who is covering the base on a throw, so that he may pitch to aid his fielders.—Billy Evans in St. Nicholas.

Scotch Repartee.

An eminent Scotch clergyman happened to dine with some learned lawyers of the Edinburgh bar. He appropriated to himself a large dish of cress, upon which he fed voraciously. Erskine, wishing to admonish him for his courtesy to the other diners, remarked:

"Doctor, you remind me of Nebuchadnezzar in his degradation."

"Aye, do I mind ye o' Nebuchadnezzar? Doubtless because I am eating among the brutes," answered the Scotch worthy.

Whereupon he took a little firmer hold.

Professional Reticence.

Motions of the Earth.

The earth has at least eight different motions. There is the rotation on the axis, making day and night; the inclination of the axis, making summer and winter; the revolution around the sun, making the year, and the motion resulting from the attraction of the moon, which shows itself more plainly in the tides. There are several other motions of less interest. Perhaps the most awe inspiring of all is the motion of the earth in space, dragged by the swiftly moving sun at the rate of 700 miles a minute.

A Clam That Pearl Divers Fear.

All sorts of superstitions prevail among the pearl fishers of Ceylon, and a large business is done by sorcerers who sell charms to restrain the appetite of the sharks and to drive away the diabolical stingrays. Another peril which the diver dreads more than either stingray or shark is the giant clam that weighs nearly half a ton when full grown. It will snap off a man's legs like pipe stems if the victim chances to thrust a limb between its open jaws, or, at all events, will hold him until he drowns miserably.—London Globe.

FOR GOOD POTATOES.

Some Rules for Growing Profitable Tubers.

The right kind of potatoes bring better prices than the wrong kind, and the right kind can usually be grown with very little added trouble.

The right kind of potatoes is the kind the public wants. To find out the taste of the public as to potatoes expert agriculturalists not long ago made an extended investigation—in homes, hotels, restaurants, and commission houses—from the Atlantic to

Following the Collynie sale came the Upper Mill dispersion, where the top price, 950 guineas, was paid for a bull calf. The buyer, Mr. Wm. Dutchie, was the gentleman whose stock was disposed of in the first sale. At both these sales there was a striking demand by the old country breeders, which shows that despite the scarcity of money, these men are loyal in keeping their best stock at home.

Making the Little Farm Pay

By C. C. BOWSFIELD

Farmers never gain what we call easy money until they learn how to get above the average both in production and price.

This will bring success when coupled with the maintenance of soil fertility. While intelligent management is important to all farmers, it is vital to owners of small places.

This intensive farming of which so much is said is not merely theory and imagination, but is based on solid fact. The truth as to some successful farming efforts is more sensational than any line of theorizing.

Reading and observing people know that for ten years the average yield of corn in Canada was under thirty bushels per acre, wheat under fifteen bushels and potatoes under Concrete is economical and simple to construct. For these reasons it is admirably suited to farm use—for feed troughs, cisterns, tions, floors, walls, etc. walks, cellars and numerous things of which ever in need at one time or and which are usually the farmer himself.

Few farmers have tried to lay up a brick arch or wall that is presentable in appearance, whereas any can handle a hatchet and build a wood form tent to execute a first class concrete job.

UNDERDRAINAGE

Poorly Drained Soil is a Back to the Farm

The late fall, after the vesting is over, is the proper time to install a system of underdrainage, summed up in "Soils: Proper Management," published by the Macmillan Company of Canada follows:

The need and value of drainage of the soil can only be appreciated after a comprehensive study of its effects on the soil that determine crop growth. In the production of the oilseed crops a reasonable soil drainage is the first step that may well be termed the first of good soil management. Noticeable effects are as follows:

Drainage permits the of the granular structure, especially in those containing clay, and thereby permits of a much better tilt is brought about by the changes in moisture content of the soil made possible by coupled with other natural agencies, as has already been explained.

As a result the soil becomes more friable, favorable for the absorption of water, and the circulation of air in the spaces in the soil, interference with the crop, tendency of the soil to form large, hard lumps is reduced.

The withdrawal of the water from the large spaces permits the admission of air into those spaces. This results in free ventilation. The free air downward through the soil waves of saturation accelerates the process of deep soil ventilation, driving the contaminated air through the underdrains and is drawn in behind the soil moisture.

The removal of the excess water by drainage permits the soil to maintain a higher average temperature. The high specific heat of the soil as compared with the soil presence of water to be the determining factor in soil temperature. Further, the process of removing the excess water from the soil requires a tremendous amount of energy. The use of solar heat to less water and to remove the water is avoided by draining the soil.

SELECTED SEED CORN.

100 bushels, yet intensive farmers report yields of over 120 bushels of dry shelled corn per acre.

In sugar beet work it has been shown easy to get 546 bushels per acre, with an average net profit of $37.60 per acre. Under irrigation methods a potato grower produced a yield of 720 bushels per acre, while with humid conditions the highest yield, 560 bushels per acre, has been attained.

The person who is determined to make his farm pay needs only to get in line with this kind of progress, using methods which are open to all. As illustrating what may be gained by study and co-operation, the reports for last year of several hundred county agents on the other side of the line are noted. Each county agent on the average secured the selection of seed corn in the fields of sixty-nine farmers and had planted selected seed on 2,132 acres, resulting in an increased yield as reported by sixty agents of 9.4 bushels per acre, due to better seed used or to the better cultural methods suggested by the agent. On the average there were grown under the direction of the agent 1,010 acres of wheat in each county, with a reported increased average yield from fifty-four agents of seven bushels per acre. Each agent induced on the average twenty-six farmers, growing a total of 729 acres of oats, to treat the seed for smut.

The right kind of potatoes is the kind the public wants. To find out the taste of the public as to potatoes expert agriculturalists not long ago made an extended investigation — in homes, hotels, restaurants, and commission houses—from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast. They found the demand was for sound potatoes of good flavor, medium size, and regular shape. They also found that such potatoes commanded higher prices than mixed lots of large and small, diseased and sound, regularly and irregularly shaped potatoes.

To grow the kind of potatoes the public wants, then, is the thing to do, and the way to begin is to plant the kind of potatoes you wish to grow. This means careful selection from the hills, observing the following rules:

Select only from hills in which a larger part of the potatoes answer the description mentioned. Potatoes from such hills are more certain to breed true to type.

Select potatoes weighing from five to eight ounces.

Use for seed no potatoes grown in fields showing a considerable amount of wilt or rosette.

Avoid potatoes showing brown ring discolorations at the stem end.

Save for planting no potatoes which are bruised, cracked, or decaying, or which show discolorations at stem end.

Store carefully in moderately warm, dry, and well ventilated place.

Treat with corrosive sublimate, four ounces to thirty gallons of water, for an hour and a half before planting.

Big Prices for Shorthorns.

At the annual draft sale of Mr. William Duthie's beef cattle at Collynie, Scotland, some remarkable prices were paid for pure-bred Shorthorns. 1,250 guineas (about $6,250) was the top value, which was given for Prince of the Manor, a middle of April Princess Royal calf sired by Knight of Collynie.

Despite the abnormal conditions in the old country at present, with one exception, the demand for the Collynie class of stock was never stronger. Buyers were present from Canada, Australia, and South America.

The average price paid for the 18 bull calves sold was £348 or £156 more than the average value of the 1914 sale. The same number of heifers averaged £90, or £7 above last year's figure.

A. F. & G. Auld of Guelph purchased the first arrival of Kings Heir, a light colored Roan of the Princess Royal family by Danesfield Storm King, for 300 guineas (about £1,500). This animal will be held in hauling and placed one layer deep on wooden racks in a warm, well-ventilated storage house.

Carrots and beets keep better if a little dry sand is put over them. This prevents drying out.

A cool cellar is the best place for cabbages. Hang them up or wrap them in paper and lay on shelves.

See that the sweet corn saved for next year's planting is stored in a well-aired place where it will not freeze.

While many raspberries will come through the winter without protection, it is always safer to lay them down and cover them with earth.

As soon as the frost kills the foliage of grape vines they may be pruned back and laid on the ground ready to be covered with earth. They should be covered before the ground freezes.

Remove all trash and rubbish from the garden. If convenient, it is well to plow or spade the land that will be used for garden next year. This will help to get rid of many insects and weeds.

SOME FARM NOTES.

Never breed from immature stock. Salt is cheap. Give the cows all they care for.

A good orchard on the farm is a fine form of life insurance.

Raising dairy cows is one of the most profitable lines of farming.

A henhouse without a south window is a mistake, and will not give satisfactory results.

Many prefer two-year-old hens for breeders. At least have yearlings; better, well developed if they are the breeders.

The stiff old broom is an excellent thing to clean out the fence posts, and this should be done after the frost.

He who makes a success in the chicken business from the start will be the man who does things, not who waits for a favorable opportunity.

Wireworms sometimes destroy corn. It has been found that they can be destroyed by the following: Dilute arsenate of lead paste to the consistency of paint. Put the paint in and stir, then spread out to dry before planting.

Suppressing San Jose Scale.

Only six cases of the dreaded San Jose Scale in Nova Scotia orchards have been located this year by the provincial inspectors, according to Prof. W. H. Brittain, of the College of Agriculture, Provincial Entomologist. This shows the value of the work being accomplished by the Entomological Department in keeping the Nova Scotia fruit farms practically free from the presence and ravages of this pest. It is a noticeable fact that the six cases were found on stock imported previous to the inauguration of the Government inspection of nursery importations in 1912. Not a single case of the San Jose Scale has been found on stock imported subsequent to that date. The comparative figures are very striking. In 1912 there were discovered 750 cases; in 1913, 64 cases; in 1914 only four cases, and in 1915 so far, only six cases, and all on stock imported prior to 1912.

county, with a reported increased average yield from fifty-four agents of seven bushels per acre. Each agent induced on the average twenty-six farmers, growing a total of 729 acres of oats, to treat the seed for smut. The increased yield of oats reported from the forty-eight counties doing demonstration work with oats was 10.6 bushels per acre.

With potatoes, forty-seven agents reported the growing of this crop by 2,447 farmers who treated the seed for scab or used improved cultural methods, getting in return an average increased yield per acre of 26.6 bushels. From thirty-eight counties, where results were reported in hay growing, the average increased yield on 140,519 acres was 1.1 tons per acre. Each agent secured on the average fifty-eight farmers in each county fifty-eight farmers in each acres of alfalfa each.

The agents reporting were instrumental in having the following number of registered stock secured by the farmers in the county: Fifty-three stallions, 748 bulls, 171 rams, and 960 boars; 5,063 farmers were induced to feed live stock, and balanced rations were figured for and adopted on 4,698 farms. The agents assisted in the organization of 378 anti-hog cholera clubs, which vaccinated 291,501 hogs. In addition 4,717 silos were put up at the suggestion of the county agents and 110 breeders' associations organized. During the year ninety-three cow-testing associations were organized, and through encouraging individual farmers to test their herds 58,718 cows were brought under test.

Upon the suggestion of the county agents 7,224 farmers were induced to make better use of farm and barnyard manure, 1,988 farmers were taught how to home mix 10,341 tons of fertilizer, while 11,552 farmers were induced to use a total of 181,506 tons of lime. Commercial fertilizers were introduced on 4,938 farms, and 42,304 acres of hay, soy beans, cowpeas, and vetch were grown for green manure.

FACTS ABOUT BARLEY.

Barley hay fed with alfalfa makes a balanced ration.

Barley is accused of causing abortion in cows to which it is fed, but this is a libel on a splendid grain.

Those fine horsemen, the Arabs, feed it to their horses as a concentrate. It is rich in carbohydrates, but deficient in protein.

Swine-growers who have tried it claim that it is the best single grain feed for hogs in a dry lot.

It makes a fine crop for hogging off. The beardless varieties are sown and it comes earlier than almost any other grain crop for this purpose.

These winter varieties yield better than the spring varieties.—Farm and Fireside.

How Much Silage to Feed.

When cattle are fed on silage with no other roughage thirty pounds of the ration to each thousand pounds of animal is about the right amount a day, whether the herd is kept for beef or milk. This assumes that grain will be fed to balance the ration. Horses may be properly fed twenty pounds a day for each thousand pounds of horse. When cattle are fed on both silage and pasture fifteen pounds a day of silage to a thousand pounds of animal is a good ration. Sheep will safely take care of two pounds of silage a day for each member of the flock.

Further, the process of evaporation of the excess water from the soil requires a tremendous amount of heat. The use of solar heat to reduce water and to remove it from the soil is avoided by draining this excess. Drained soil maintains a higher average temperature in summer, but warms in spring to a temperature fitting seeds. This gives a longer growing season.

The improved ventilation from drainage permits the plants to penetrate deeper into the soil, where they come in contact with a larger supply of moisture. One of the indications of the drainage is the shallow root system of crops. Stagnant, saturated soil is as resistant to penetration of upland crops as the hardest rock.

Drainage reduces heaving, or the lifting of crop action in the soil, indicating the presence of too much moisture in proportion to its pore space. Water freezes it expands on account of its volume. If the soil is nearly saturated, this is expressed at the surface by a lifting, or heaving, exceedingly injurious to most plants. Their roots are gradually pulled out of the soil, and smaller plants are taken up in the process. When the soil is drained so that air spaces are distributed throughout, the expansion of the soil when it freezes is taken up in the without heaving at the surface.

Drainage reduces erosion by withdrawing the water from the soil instead of permitting it to accumulate to the point where it must move over the surface with serious erosive action. That the drains may be effective, the soil above the drains must be sufficiently porous to permit the water to pass through it as fast as it accumulates.

Sunlight and the Greenhouse.

The Massachusetts experiment at Amherst has evolved a type of greenhouse for use in forcing of lettuce and cucumbers.

will be noted that every portion of sunlight is made use of in the type of construction. The southern side is boarded up for forcing rhubarb, a cucumber plants are trained.

Longevity of Horse.

Gray horses are the long and cream-colored ones that are affected by temperature changes.

Tossing in a Blanket. Tossing in the blanket is a sport or punishment. "Ben Jonson called it, and in (1557) we find a denunciation, plaicing, blanketing and filthie and dishonorable. The French have a special "berner," for it, "berne" name given to the sheet used. The verb "berner" is for the Moorish punishment, four men hold the victim tight and wrists and send him as they can—presumably without a knot to catch him.

TO CLEAN IVORY.

When the stains on ivory are slight and will not disappear when rubbed off with a dry cloth, wash the article thoroughly in warm water and soapsuds and then, without drying it on a cloth, place it in the bright sun-light for a few minutes. This exposure will usually remove the stains. After they have disappeared wash the ivory again in soap and water, rinse it thoroughly and dry carefully with a soft cloth. Where the stains do not disappear entirely after contact with the sun's rays the ivory should be washed again in soap and water, then rinsed in clear water to which a little lemon juice has been added. Care must be taken to have the temperature of the water right, as too great heat will injure the ivory.

A GENUINE COPY.

Directions, Step by Step, For Making New England Potpie.

New England potpie is made of three pounds of breast of lamb, each rib bone cut into three inch lengths, and one small chicken, carefully cleaned, singed and jointed and the meat stripped from the breast and back. Put the meat, chicken and two sliced large onions into a deep pot, cover with water and cook gently until the meat is thoroughly done.

Forty minutes before the time to serve it have pared and sliced thick a small pudding dish full of white potatoes; put them in and season with pepper, salt and a little celery salt. Have ready raised dough enough to make fifteen dumplings, pinch them off and roll them round about the size of an egg; then lay them on a floured board to puff up. Ten minutes after the potatoes have been put in drop the puffed up dumplings lightly on top of the stew, cover quickly with a cloth and a cover and boil half an hour.

Be sure before putting in the dumplings that there is enough gravy covering the meat to float the dumplings.

When done remove the cloth and cover and lift dumplings carefully with the skimmer to one platter; then also with the skimmer lift out the meat and potatoes to another platter; then have a smooth flour thickening ready and boil down the gravy and thicken it, turning some over the stew and serving the rest in the tureen.

Game of "Adjectives."

"Adjectives" is an interesting game. One of the players writes a letter, which, of course, he does not show, leaving a blank for every adjective. He then asks each player in turn round the table for an adjective, filling up the blank spaces with adjectives as he receives them.

The following short letter will explain the game better than a long description. The quoted words are the given adjectives:

My "Detestable" Friend—In answer to your "amiable" letter I am "silly" to inform you that the "foolish" and "degraded" Miss Jones sends you her most "fallacious" thanks for your kindness and bids me to tell you she will always think of you as the "vainest" and most "adorable" friend she ever had. As for that "sagacious" fellow, Smith, he is such a "delightful" donkey, such a "filthy" and "eminent" muff you need not fear he will prove a very "complicated" fellow.

Believe me, my "foolish" fellow, Yours,

the process of evaporation removes water from the soil, resulting in a tremendous amount of heat. Solar heat warms the soil and to remove it by evaporation is avoided by draining away. Drained soil not only has a higher average temperature, but warms up earlier to a temperature for plants. This gives a longer growth.

Proven ventilation resulting in aeration permits the roots of plants to penetrate deeper into the soil as they come in contact with the supply of moisture and food. The indications of the need of aeration are the shallow root development. Stagnant water in a soil is as resistant to the growth of upland crops as is the rock.

Heaving reduces heaving. Heavy lifting of crops by frost or the soil, indicates the presence of much moisture in the soil due to its pore space. When frozen it expands one-eleventh volume. If the soil is saturated, this expansion is at the surface of the soil, causing heaving, which is injurious to most crops that grow in the soil. It breaks the soil and gradually lifts the plants out of the ground if this is many times repeated. The soil is drained so that free air is distributed through the expansion of the water as is taken up in these spaces leaving at the surface.

Heaving reduces erosion of soils by allowing the water through instead of permitting it to settle to the point where it flows over the surface, often causing erosive action. In order to drain, drains may be efficient, but the drains must be sufficient to permit the removal of water as fast as it accumulates.

Light and the Greenhouse.

Massachusetts experiment station at Amherst has evolved a new greenhouse for use in the growing of lettuce and cucumbers. It

Notes that every possible ray of light is made use of in this construction. The slanting gable end is boarded up and forcing rhubarb, and all the plants are trained vertically.

Longevity of Horses.

Horses are the longest lived, colored ones the most affected by temperature changes.

Lossing in a Blanket.

In the blanket is a very old punishment called it, and in Holmshed finds a denunciation of "jesting, blanketing and such other dishonorable exercises" which have a special verb, for it, "berne" being the verb to the sheet or blanket. The verb "berner" is also used for foolish punishment, in which hold the victim by his wrists and send him as high as—presumably with no blanket him.

Now He Has Millions.

"See that fellow in the limousine?" said one man to another at Washington and Illinois streets as a big car passed.

"Well, I can remember when he didn't have but one pair of socks; now he has millions."

"Gee, he must have some washings," replied the friend whose mind does not run to finances.

By Comparison.

"Dubkins is a great comfort to me." "I don't see how you can say that. He's the most tiresome chump I have ever met."

"That's just it. Although I don't amount to much, it's true, every time I look at Dubkins I feel that I could amount to less."

DECISION.

We waste a deal of time and brain force in making and remaking decisions that should be made once for all. When some duty is to be performed, the sooner it can be accomplished and put away as finished work the better.

With the skimmer lift out the meat and potatoes to another platter; then have a smooth flour thickening ready and boil down the gravy and thicken it, turning some over the stew and serving the rest in the tureen.

Jellied Prunes.

Pick over and wash one-third pound of prunes, soak in two cupfuls of cold water overnight or for several hours and cook in same water until soft. Remove the prunes, stone and cut in quarters. To the prune liquor add enough boiling water to make two cupfuls of liquid. Soak two and one-half tablespoonsfuls of granulated gelatin in one-half cupful of cold water, dissolve in hot liquid and add one cupful of sugar and one-fourth cupful of lemon juice. Strain, add the prunes and turn into a mold first dipped in cold water. Chill thoroughly, stirring to prevent the prunes from settling. Serve with sugar and cream.

Futility of Argument.

Plato defined man as "a two legged animal without feathers." Diogenes, who heard this, plucked a cock. "This is Plato's man," said he. But never you think the old timer lacked a "comeback." He added to his original definition the words, "With broad flat nails." Such is the futility of argument.—Springfield Republican.

The Weasel and the Mice.

A weasel, inactive from age and infirmities, was not able to catch mice as he once did. He therefore rolled himself in flour and lay down in a dark corner. A mouse, supposing him to be dead, leaped upon him, and, being instantly caught, was squeezed to death. Another perished in a similar manner, and then a third, and still others after them. A very old mouse, who had escaped full many a trap and snare, observing from a safe distance the trick of his crafty foe, said, "Ah, you that lie there, may you prosper just in the same proportion as you are what you pretend to be!"—Aesop's Fables.

A Boy's Idea.

Some historian has discovered that we owe the existence of the safety pin to the walls of an English baby. A little boy named Harold, the son of a blacksmith, had often to play nurse to his baby brother. He saw that when the baby cried it was usually because he was pricked by a pin. For a long time the boy nurse tried to bend the common pin so that it would be less likely to puncture the baby's flesh, and as his father, the blacksmith, noticed the boy's work the idea of the safety pin grew in his own mind until it resulted in a contrivance that is in use the world over.

He Told Her About It.

Eugene attended the wedding of his Aunt Nan, which took place in church. The bridegroom and best man were waiting at the altar for the bride, who was slowly advancing up the aisle to the strains of the wedding march, when Eugene's childlike treble sounded clearly: "Hurry up, Aunt Nan! Mr. Abbot's waiting for you!"—Pittsburgh Press.

Supply of Table Linen.

The farseeing woman always manages to be a dozen ahead of her needs in table and bed linen. Thus she always has an extra dozen of napkins laid away in her chest for a hurry call, so that if she finds the dozen in actual use suddenly giving out she has some presentable ones ready for unexpected guests and to keep her going until she has been able to buy, hem and mark a new dozen.

It always seems a large outlay to stock the linen chest, and it pays to take advantage of sales and to buy ahead when possible. This is just as true of bed as of table linen, since extra sheets are often needed in a case of illness or guests, and it is a comfortable feeling to know that there are some extra sheets laid away when rents appear and money is not forthcoming with which to buy new.

PROGRESS OF TEMPERANCE.

In Great Britain the hours of sale have been curtailed to five and one-half hours each day. The King has set an example of abstinence. Military leaders unsparingly condemn intemperance. Lloyd George has stirred the empire with his striking indictment of drink.

Russia has enacted and is enforcing total prohibition with marvellous results—economic and moral. France has enacted absolute prohibition of absinthe and has prohibited the sale of spirituous liquors of any kind to soldiers. Other nations are passing practical restrictive measures.

Nineteen states of the American Union are entirely under prohibition. Large areas of other States are also "dry" through Local Option. More than seventy per cent. of the territory of the United States and more than fifty per cent. of the population is under prohibition.

Only last month Newfoundland by a vote of 24,965 to 5,348 declared for total prohibition.

In Canada temperance victories have been won, or battles are being fought in every Province.
